Mansfield Child Hit By Car, Near Death

Windsors Visit U. S., Canada

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor proved at the outset of his six-week vacation trip to the United States and Canada that he is just as energetic as the Prince of Wales who used to dash around the world selling British good will. Edward, governor of the Bahamas, is shown above with his duchess yesterday after their flight from Nassau. Within 12 hours of his arrival, the former king had paid a visit to Arthur Davis of Pittsburgh aboard the latter's yacht; lunched at his hotel with friends, sped to suburban Coral Gables to inspect 300 RAF cadets and 100 Americans studying navigation at the University of Miami; spent another hour and a half at the Pan American airways inner key seaplane base; and entertained airline officials at a cocktail party.

The Duke and Duchess will reach Washington tomorrow morning and will be guests of President Roosevelt for an informal White House luncheon. They will make the trip in two special railway cars.

GIRL, 6, STRUCK AS SHE RUNS ACROSS STREET

Bowman School First Grader Has 'Slim Chance' With Brain Injury.

BROTHER CALLS HER

Police Told Sister Entered Car's Path While on Way To See Physician.

Unconscious since 7:53 p.m. last night when she was struck by an auto while crossing the street near her home, six-year-old Patricia Sciarrotta, first grade pupil at Bowman street school, was in Mansfield General hospital today with a severe brain injury and has a "slim chance" for recovery, according to physicians.

Struck by a car which police said was driven by John Rupanovic, 6 Kohler avenue, as she crossed the street at the intersection of Springmill and Harker streets, Patricia was on her way to a physician's office with a brother, Francis, 10, when the accident happened. She had been vaccinated recently and was troubled with a swelling in her leg.

Francis had crossed the street to inquire at the Wilson grocery about the bus and had motioned to his sister to join him as he came out of the store, officers were informed.

Rupanovic reported to police that he was traveling northwest on Springmill street and had stopped at the intersection of Harker street to wait for the green light. He was only 50 feet west of the west crosswalk, he told police, when the child ran from the south to the north side of the street and into the path of his car. The right front fender struck the child, knocking her to the pavement.

Parents of the little girl, Mr and Mrs Ross Sciarrotta, 394 McPherson street, were immediately notified and the child was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Francis ran to his home close by to tell his mother. Sciarrotta, who was teaching foreign languages at Bowman school, was called by friends.

The little girl is the only daughter in the Sciarrotta family. She has four brothers, Francis, 10, Ross, 8, Donny, 4, and Gerry, 2.

Newest U. S. Battlewagon Slides Down Ways

Nearly 50,000 persons watched as the United States navy's new 35,000-ton battleship U. S. S. Massachusetts slides into the water, above, at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company's yards at Quincy, Mass. The Massachusetts, sister ship of the North Carolina, the Washington and the South Dakota, is the fourth dreadnaught launched under the two-ocean navy program.

Russians Ease Ukraine Trap With Assaults

Germans Reported Thrown Back Across Corpse-Littered Field Near Old Czarist Capital; RAF Planes Join Soviets At East Front.

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(AP)—The complete failure of a second German attempt to capture Murmansk, Russia's ice-free port in the Arctic, was reported today by Red Star, organ of the Russian army.

BULLETIN

SOFIA—(AP)—Bulgaria does not intend to enter the war against Soviet Russia or break off relations with Moscow, Peter Gabrovsky, minister of the interior, told foreign correspondents today. "Bulgaria has no aggressive intentions against anyone and is not preparing for war against any country," Gabrovsky said.

Red armies defending Leningrad were reported hurling the Germans back over a battlefield littered with Nazi corpses today, while on the central front, fierce Russian counter-blows were pictured as easing the pressure on Marshal Semeon Budyenny's battered armies in the Ukraine.

Red Star, Soviet army newspaper, said Russian troops in an all-day assault routed the 136th German infantry division and recaptured a point on the approaches to Leningrad.

Tank-supported German counter-attacks were repulsed, Red Star said, and large-scale Nazi onslaughts southeast of the old czarist capital also failed.

The Germans, admitting bitter Soviet resistance around Leningrad, emphasized what they called a mighty battle of annihilation 125 miles east of Kiev, where the count of Russian prisoners enmeshed in a trap was reported nearing 500,000.

British warplanes have now gone into action for the first time on the three-months-old eastern battlefront, the air ministry announced in London.

"A number of patrols have been flown in bad weather and there have been successful encounters with enemy fighters," the ministry said, adding that seven German planes have been destroyed in the initial engagements with the loss of only one RAF fighter.

Russia officially denied the German assertion that four Red armies had been trapped east of Kiev.

Adolf Hitler's high command declared that "chaotic conditions" engulfed the encircled Reds and that German troops closing the jaws of the trap were continuing a wholesale annihilation.

"The remainder have been concentrated into two closely encircled pockets," the Nazi command said.

Mansfielders Buy as They Eye New Oct. 1 Tax Boost

City's Stores See Upturn In Sales As Purchases Jump on Merchandise Subject to New Levy.

Uncle Sam's new taxes which will be slapped on merchandise ranging from furs, cosmetics and jewelry to refrigerators, washing machines and automobiles, beginning next Wednesday, have prompted the thrifty housewife to take advantage of current prices in Mansfield stores before the H. C. L. shoots them any higher.

A decided upturn in sales has been noticed by Mansfield merchants within the past few days particularly in the merchandise that will be affected by the new tax, according to V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Retail Merchants association.

Women are shopping at the jewelry and cosmetic counters with more than ordinary interest as these two complements to feminine vanity, along with furs, are scheduled to be hit with a 10 per cent retail levy, beginning Oct. 1.

Just how the new taxes will affect all types of lay-aways Lodde said he would not know until more detailed information was received from Washington.

For the benefit of the ladies he said that he understood that balances remaining on fur coats laid away before Oct. 1, would be taxable after that date. He also explained that fur coats now priced at $100 would be subject to 10 per cent federal tax which would bring

ORDER BALLOTS

Election Officials Take Low Bid on 155,000.

Contract for printing ballots for the November election in Mansfield, Shelby, and the county's townships and villages was awarded last night to the Richland Printing company, Mansfield, which submitted the lowest of three bids received by the county election board.

The ballots will cost $1,498.50, board officials said. Lindeman and Almy, Mansfield, offered to print them for $1,498.75, only 25 cents higher than the winning bid. Rickets and Nichols, Mansfield, bid $1,578.

The contract calls for approximately 155,000 ballots with the first to be delivered by Oct. 6 for absentee voting. The entire order must be ready about Oct. 23. Ballots will list candidates for municipal, township, and board of education offices and special issues.

Union Members Discuss Freeing Of Strike-Bound Ships.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The seafarers' International union (AFL) today called membership meeting to discuss the release of 25 strike-bound ships, a proposal a union leader said was "the sensible thing to do."

The meetings were called for locals in the Atlantic and Gulf ports after President Roosevelt yesterday asserted that the tied-up vessels have got to move.

LOCATE AUTO

Sheriff Finds Stolen Car, Cargo of Lead Missing.

The stolen car which authorities believe was used by thieves to transport 1,000 pounds of lead stolen from the Hoffman Plumbing company warehouse Sunday night was recovered by deputy sheriff's last night on the Mt. Zion road just off State Route 39.

Deputies John Whitcomb and J. R. Hetler returned the car to Mansfield after a girl called Mansfield police to report she saw an abandoned automobile along the road.

Whitcomb said the car was empty and apparently had been abandoned after the gas supply ran out. The car was not damaged.

Both the car and the half-ton of lead were stolen from the plumbing company's warehouse on West Temple court. The warehouse door lock was taken by the burglars.

Refugees Return To Coast As Hurricane Sweeps Eastward

(By International News Service)

HOUSTON, Tex—Weary refugees began the journey back to their homes along the Texas Gulf coast today, as a 100-mile-an-hour hurricane curved inland past Houston and headed for the Louisiana border.

The center of the tropical disturbance, which brought torrents of rain and winds of gale force over an area of hundreds of square miles, was reported this morning to be over Lufkin and Palestine.

Harrassed by interrupted communications from many points as lines went down before the gales, the weather bureau reported that if the hurricane continues its present route it should cross the Texas-Louisiana border between Nachitoches and Shreveport, La.

This would bring it aproximately over the area where the army is currently winding up its great peace-time maneuvers.

Three persons were known to be dead and dozens injured in an early checkup of the Texas Gulf storm sector. Damage was difficult to estimate exactly but would certainly exceed five, and probably ten, million dollars. Business and residential property in Houston alone suffered a million dollars' damage.

AGREE ON O-B UNION ELECTION

Company and Union Officials Decide To Ask Labor Board For Vote at Plant.

A National Labor Relations board election will be held among employes of the Ohio Brass company to determine whether Local 758, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers will be designated as sole bargaining agent for employes, it was decided at an NLRB hearing held here today.

At what was termed an "informal" hearing before Max W. Johnstone, NLRB trial examiner from Cleveland, both company and union representatives agreed to an election.

Their request will be forwarded to the NLRB, and Johnstone said sanction of the election would be forthcoming soon.

Irvin Veach, counsel for the company, requested that the election not be held before Oct. 6, and Johnstone agreed to that stipulation. Usually an election follows within 30 days of the petition's approval.

According to the petition the election will affect all production and maintenance workers in the plant including powerhouse employes.

Excluded from representation in the petition were foremen, assistant foremen, part-time foremen supervisors, clerical and office workers.

Drivers' License Sale Lags, Club Warns of Rush

With the sale of drivers' licenses lagging behind last year's sales, Jack Berger, Auto club assistant secretary, pointed out today that with only six days left to file application the club was 5,000 licenses behind the expected total.

He warned there probably would be long waiting lines forming at the club during closing days of the license sale period.

The Auto club will remain open until 8 p. m. Monday and Tuesday, the last two days of the sale. Extra clerks are on duty now to handle all applications.

Sale of drivers' and chauffeurs' licenses closes Tuesday evening. "There will be positively no extension of time," Berger said, according to information received from Columbus. "Those who don't get licenses, won't be able to drive."

Combined sales of drivers' and chauffeurs' licenses for this year to date are 9,953 against approximately 14,000 for last year.

FDR Forecasts Arming Of Merchant Shipping

Hints At Changes In Neutrality Act Expected Next Week; Reveals Pink Star Carried Guns.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The arming of American merchantmen today became the next probable move in the shoot-on-sight campaign to make the "defensive waters" of the United States an unhealthy hunting ground for Axis raiders.

It would necessitate modification of the much-debated neutrality act, and it might eventually involve the stupendous technical job of furnishing guns and gun crews for more than 1,600 ships, two problems that were receiving careful study at the White House.

President Roosevelt, however, told his press conference yesterday that a decision on the neutrality act probably would be forthcoming next week, and he hinted strongly at its nature, in one respect, when he said that the United States probably was headed toward the arming of its merchant marine.

Mr. Roosevelt bracketed that hint with the statement that everything would be done to protect American shipping—an assertion that was quickly endorsed by Senator Austin of Vermont, the assistant Republican leader, who has consistently supported the administration's foreign policy.

Austin's attitude, however, was not shared by Senator Tobey (R., N. H.).

Tobey charged that the "neutrality act is being evaded and avoided at every turn," and he said the arming of merchant ships

SQUELCH PLANS

Jap Government Hits Rallies Honoring Axis Alliance.

TOKYO — (AP) — The Japanese government today squelched the plans of the fiery Seigo Nakano and his pro-Axis Tohokai group for a series of rallies Saturday celebrating the first anniversary of Japan's alliance with Berlin and Rome.

The only observance of the anniversary will be a meeting sponsored by the imperial rule assistance association and the Tokyo municipal authorities in Kanda ward, a district sufficiently isolated that foreigners are not likely to notice it.

Koh Ishii, government spokesman, took occasion to refer to reports of Russian-Japanese clashes on the Manchurian border as "Chungking propaganda."

Flames Extinguished By Blast at Ohio Plant.

LEBANON — (INS) — Although accumulated gas blasted a sewer manhole cover and ignited a 12,000-gallon tank of kerosene at the Logan-Long company in Franklin, officials asserted today there was no loss in the brief fire.

Flames which followed the explosion were almost immediately snuffed out by the concussion of the explosion. Dan Routt, 44, who was on top of the oil tank, was thrown to the ground but suffered only minor burns.

NEW SMYRNA, Fla.—(INS)—Fourteen persons—five passengers and the crew of nine—who were aboard the British motor freighter Arawak, which caught fire and burned off the Florida coast yesterday, were landed safely today at Ponce De Leon inlet, the U. S. coastguard announced.

The 14 persons represented the entire complement aboard the 150-foot wooden vessel. None was injured as they fled from the burning ship, it was said.

Cause of the fire had not yet been determined. The vessel with general cargo, was enroute from Jacksonville to Nassau.

Morgenthau Urges 6 Per Cent Limit On All Profit In U. S.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary Morgenthau told congress today he believed all profits in this country should be limited to 6 per cent during the current emergency.

Testifying before the house banking committee in support of early passage of the administration's price control bill, the treasury head said he felt that "much more stringent" excess profits taxes would be necessary, especially if the government meant to ask all segments of the population to make sacrifices to carry out the defense program.

In response to questions by Representative Williams (D-Mo) as to just what the treasury had in mind regarding profits, Morgenthau refrained from going into technicalities, but said his personal philosophy in the matter was simply that all corporations should be "satisfied" if they could earn 6 per cent of their invested capital.

"Everything over 6 per cent should go to the government during the emergency," he said.

Morgenthau told the committee he thought it would be undemocratic to put a ceiling on wages. He did favor federal control of farm prices and said the pending bill's exemption of these was its "major defect."

"I strongly recommend that this

Passage of City Fire Levy Won't Boost Tax Rates

Mansfield voters can approve the proposed half-mill tax levy for fire department improvements in November without an increase in the city tax rate, the tentative rate schedule set up by County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe showed today.

The city's rate, including the levy, will be 16 mills in 1942, the same rate that has been in effect the past two years, the auditor said. If the levy is defeated the new rate will be 15.50 mills.

Payment on the Mansfield Conservancy district debt and other bonded indebtedness outside the 10-mill limitation will reduce the city rate about a half mill to balance the proposed levy for a new fire station and additional equipment, Wolfe pointed out.

The auditor said only tentative rates can be set up until after the November election since a number of taxing districts will submit tax levies and bond issues which would change the 1942 rates if they are approved.

"For this reason, the frist-half tax collection probably will be delayed until late in January," Wolfe said.

The new rates must be approved by the state taxation department after the election in November and then the county auditor must have time to set up the revised schedule and figure the tax on properties before the collection starts, the auditor pointed out.

NAZIS HURLED BACK BY REDS AT LENINGRAD

battlefront, the Germans acknowledged that Soviet forces were offering the bitterest resistance, particularly around siege-girt Leningrad where the Red armies were making a foot-by-foot defense.

The Berlin radio, however, reported that Nazi troops had captured a "fair-sized town" in the Leningrad sector—otherwise unidentified—and dive-bombers were said to have left the Russian battleship Marat in a sinking condition in the Gulf of Finland.

Soviet warships which have been playing an effective role in the defense of Leningrad were reported under devastating attack by Nazi bombers.

Finnish troops driving down upon Leningrad from the north reported they had captured the Svir river No. 2 power station, which supplied electricity to the old czarist capital, crossing the canalized stream linking Lakes Onega and Ladoga.

London sources said Great Britain has warned Finland that she would be regarded as an open enemy if the Finns persisted in invading Soviet territory beyond the old 1939 frontier. So far, Helsinki and London had only broken diplomatic relations.

The Russians, declaring they were counter-attacking over hundreds of miles of the central and northern front, frankly admitted that Marshal Budyenny's Ukraine armies were sorely pressed.

Soviet Vice Commissar S. A. Lozovsky expressed anxiety that the Germans driving toward the Donets river basin and the key cities of Kharkov and Rostov might reduce Russia's industrial capacity and also gain a jumping-off point for a thrust into the rich Caucasus oil fields — the source of nine-tenths of the U. S. S. R.'s ordinary petroleum needs.

DNB, official German news agency, said Nazi dive-bombers already were smashing the big Kharkov industrial area, destroying 150 railway cars and firing a trainload of gasoline.

Other international developments included:

Argentine troops patrolled military airports today and a number of young aviation officers were under arrest, apparently as a precaution against an uprising in a Pan American ramification of the war.

Rumors had spread through the chamber of deputies in Buenos Aires yesterday of a subversive movement in the provinces of Interios, Cordova and Tucuman. Airports at the inland cities of Cordoba and Parana, both of which have large German populations, were among the first to be occupied by the soldiers.

Blood was spilled in a clash of troops and munitions workers in the sister republic of Mexico.

From four to 14 workers, including Union Secretary Guillermo Rojas, were reported killed and from 16 to dozens injured in shooting yesterday on a Mexico City street when a military guard halted a parade of workers to the home of President Manuel Avila Camacho for the presentation of grievances.

The munitions workers had sought ousting of Gen Luis Rebadilla Camberos, director of the war plants, charging him with farming out contracts to incompetents and conspiring to give the impression that the complainants were Communists.

German air raiders struck last night at Moscow. Russians announced that only two bombers got through the defenses.

Bad weather prevented the RAF for the third successive night from attacking Germany but a few German craft—presumably based in occupied territory on the channel—dropped bombs at several points in southwest England and Wales.

Nazis Report Red Capital Ship Sunk

BERLIN—(INS)—The 23,606-ton Soviet battleship Marat one of the three known Russian capital warships—has been sunk in the Gulf of Finland an official German announcement stated today.

Already damaged in previous attacks, the Marat was sent to the bottom by Luftwaffe Stuka dive-bombers which caught the battleship in the gulf not far from Leningrad and the nearby Kronstadt naval base, scoring several direct hits with bombs of the heaviest caliber.

In addition, the 23,256-ton Russian battleship October Revolution twice hit by bombs on Sunday again was hit in her stern by two heavy bombs dropped by diving Stukas, and a big Soviet destroyer was set on fire.

If the repeated hits on the October Revolution put it out of active service, the attack left Russia with only one battleship, the 23,106-ton Paris Commune, still active.

Reports Germans On Defensive

WITH THE RED ARMY, on the Eastern Front—(U.P.)—Lieut. Gen. Vassily Sokolovsky, a representative Russian commander, said today that the Germans were digging in on a large part of the front, that they were on the defensive in many sectors and that trench warfare, mud and merciless Russian winter lay ahead of them.

He said the German blitzkrieg had failed in the sense that the Russo-German campaign had now developed into a continuous grinding of German men and materials.

"The Germans are now on the defensive for hundreds and almost thousands of kilometers of the front," Gen. Sokolovsky said.

As Pupils Take First Ride On Train

At least half of Country Day school's 48 pupils had their first train ride yesterday when the entire school boarded the west bound Pennsylvania train at 12:23 p. m. for a brief trip to Crestline and subsequent visit to the Pennsylvania Round House. The school faculty accompanied the children also J. E. Young, Pennsylvania agent, and E. J. White, railroad detective. Automobiles driven to Crestline by the mothers brought the children back to Mansfield. The pupils passed through all the coaches on the train and had an instructive afternoon under the supervision of the railroad representatives. They are shown in the above picture as they boarded the train at the Mansfield station.

taking to be "of great prospective usefulness."

The proposal was made after the council had approved the Roosevelt-Churchill eight-point Atlantic charter without dissent, pledging adherence to the "common principles of policy" and cooperation "to the best of our ability."

The approval of the Roosevelt-Churchill declaration had come earlier.

A resolution to this effect was adopted by a voice vote after the Soviet Ambassador, Ivan Maisky, had declared that Russia was in agreement with the fundamental principles of the declaration and asserted that the Soviet Union would defend the right of every nation to independence, territorial integrity and the social order and form of government of its own choice.

"Consistent application of these principles," Maisky told the council of inter-allied governments, "will secure the most energetic support on the part of the government and peoples of the Soviet Union."

The most pressing task before the allied governments, he said, "is correct allocation of all economic resources and war supplies with a view to early liberation of all European peoples now oppressed by Hitlerite slavery."

The council planned to consider resolutions regarding the Roosevelt-Churchill declaration and the supply of essential requirements to Europe after the war.

Believe Dairy Truck Was One Which Hit Baby

Although Karl Hassa, Wellington R. D. 2, driver of the dairy truck which was believed to have fatally injured 14-months-old Howard Jerry Binkley near Polk yesterday, contends that he knew nothing of the accident until several hours later, Ashland county authorities said today they were convinced the truck ran over the child.

In a statement to Sheriff Dale Hammond of Ashland county, Hassa said he did not see the child at any time and did not know that the truck struck anything while he was in the vicinity of the Binkley farm.

"In fact, I never saw that baby as the trip was only the second on the route," Hassa told the sheriff.

Sheriff Hammond said tire marks in the roadway where the baby was fatally injured matched the tread of the tires on the truck driven by Hassa.

The baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Binkley, died shortly before noon yesterday in the Samaritan hospital in Ashland about two hours after the child was found lying in the road leading from the farm home to U. S. Route 12.

Says Britain Won't Need Another A. E. F.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(INS)—No American expeditionary force will be necessary to aid Great Britain to smash Chancellor Hitler, if the United States produces and ships munitions at top speed, A. H. Findlay, British labor leader, maintained today.

Addressing the seventh annual convention of the CIO's Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, Findlay one of a delegation of eight persons selected by Prime Minister Churchill to exchange information and ideas with American labor and industry, said:

"The Germans will crack and the people who led them into the war will suffer the same fate as their emperor did after the last war. Our quarrel is not with the German people but with those who support Hitler."

Maude's pool was drained to prevent the baby hippo from drowning until it becomes accustomed to water, which for the time being will be sprayed on.

FDR FORECASTS SHIP ARMING

Hints Neutrality Act Changes; Reveals Pink Star Carried Guns.

would be only "another of a sequence of events that are bringing us into active warfare."

The question of arming ships and modifying the neutrality act arose at Mr. Roosevelt's press conference yesterday during a discussion of the sinking of the S. S. Pink Star—an American-owned ship operating under the flag of Panama—which went down in the North Atlantic Friday night.

The chief executive contributed some additional details on the ship's loss. He said she had been the victim of a submarine some 275 miles northeast of Cape Farewell, the southernmost tip of Greenland, while traveling in a Canadian convoy. The state department later announced that 23 survivors of the crew of 31 had reached Iceland in good condition.

The Pink Star, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed, had been armed, and he said that other American-owned ships operating under Panamanian registry also had been given guns. The neutrality act prohibits the arming of ships flying the United States flag, but the restriction does not apply to American-owned ships operated under non-American registry.

Charge FDR Seeks 'Western Justice'

BERLIN —(UP)— President Roosevelt's statements concerning the freighter Pink Star merely confirm that Germany acted according to international law in torpedoing the vessel, authorized German sources declared today.

The ship was armed, was convoyed by enemy craft and carried the flag of Panama, not of the United States, they stated.

"Whoever accepts an enemy convoy thereby becomes a constituent part of any enemy formation," these sources said.

"Roosevelt, by his description of the incident, himself revealed the perfectly correct procedure of the German submarine."

(The Pink Star, an American-owned former Danish vessel, was sunk Friday night in the Atlantic some 275 miles northeast of Cape Farewell, Greenland, while travelling in a Canadian convoy, President Roosevelt said yesterday at a press conference. She was armed, he said.)

German sources asserted that Roosevelt, in claiming it was immaterial whether such a ship as the Pink Star were armed or unarmed or what flag it flew, "is trying to establish wild west justice, not international law."

inflexibility be removed," he said, "in the interest of the attack upon inflation, in the interest of the standard of living of our people, and in the long run in the interest of farmers as well."

Saying that present farm prices were not excessive, he explained that he was worried about the possibility that agricultural prices, without federal brakes, would "continue to rise as they did in the World war."

He added that, "After the first World war inflation, agriculture was the hardest hit and the slowest to recover.

The secretary, however, opposed suggestions that wages be made subject to the same controls.

It was his opinion that if the nation takes adequate measures to keep the cost of living from rising and imposes adequate taxes on business profits, "then we will have removed the major causes for demands for general wage increases."

Morgenthau said the cost of pork chops typified the inflation threat.

He recalled, "The housewife knows that pork chops that were 29 cents a pound in January were 30 in February, 31 in April, 32 in May, 35 in June, 37 in July, 38 in August and 41 at the moment, a total rise of 40 per cent in those nine months." He noted also sharp rises in the cost of eggs, coffee, sugar, flour, textiles, building materials, chemicals, and hides and leather.

Reveal Marriage Date At Dinner Party In Galion

GALION—One of the season's prettiest dinner parties at Hotel Talbott, Tuesday night, given by Mrs. C. F. Boyd, announced the approaching marriage of her daughter, Martha Jean, to Donald E. Kelley.

Miss Boyd is the eldest of four daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Foyd of Grove avenue, and a granddaughter of the late D. C. Boyd, founder of the Galion Iron Works and Manufacturing company. Martha Jean was graduated from Stephens College, Columbia, Missourn. Her fiance is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Kelley of Galion. He is a local real estate broker and insurance agent.

Date of the marriage is Oct. 22.

Out-of-town guests were the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. Hugh Y. Wicks of Lakeside, and Mrs. Belle N. Cot of Hornell, New York, Miss Boyd's aunt.

GUEST SPEAKER BEFORE KIWANIS

GALION — Telling about the work of some 600 young people in Crawford county, Mary Weisman of Bucyrus, home demonstration agent who is in charge of 4-H work in the county, was guest speaker at the Kiwanis club luncheon meeting at Hotel Talbott, Tuesday noon. Program chairman was Kenneth M. Petri.

The Red Cross Roll Call chairman, Howard A. Baker, introduced Bessie Kinsey of Washington, D. C., field representative of the American Red Cross, who gave a short talk.

The annual entertainment festival which the club sponsors, will start Oct. 21, and will be presented on three successive Tuesday evenings.

Somebody whistles a few bars of a catchy tune.
Others pick it up.
Soon the whole country's whistling it.
It's a hit.

Somebody lights up a cigarette.
Likes it. Passes the word along.
Soon the whole country's smoking it.
It's a hit. IT'S CHESTERFIELD.

The big thing that's pushing Chesterfield ahead
Is the approval of smokers like yourself.
Chesterfields are definitely Milder,
Cooler-Smoking and Better-Tasting.
They're made of the world's best

Blended just right to give you more smoking pleasure.

But even these facts wouldn't count
If smokers didn't just naturally like them.
Once a smoker finds out from Chesterfield
What real smoking pleasure is, nothing else will do.
Yes, fellow smokers, IT'S YOUR APPROVAL
THAT'S PUSHING CHESTERFIELD AHEAD.

SHELBY STREET WIDENING JOB NEARS FINISH

Traffic Conditions Relieved By Project In Down Town Business District.

SHELBY — The widening project for Main street, between Wentz avenue and the New York Central railroad crossing, is expected to be completed by next week, city officials disclosed today.

The WPA workmen employed on the project have not been working this week because they have completed the time schedule for the past month. They will start work again Thursday when the new work month starts.

Only a small section of the street remains to be completed. It is on the north side of East Main street between the east side square and Wentz avenue.

The entire street on both sides has been widened already through the downtown area an average of three feet relieving the congested traffic condition between the east and west side squares.

Some 30 WPA employes have been employed on the project which opened earlier this summer. City street employes are assisted with work in a number of places.

200 WORKERS IN DRIVE

SHELBY — The drive to raise $75,000 to build an addition to Shelby Memorial hospital got underway today in charge of some 200 workers.

The workers held a dinner rally Tuesday night at the social rooms of First Methodist church.

Fred W. Ramsey of Cleveland, director of Public Health and Welfare of that city, was the principal speaker on the program following the dinner.

Supplies and instructions were given out to the drive workers at the close of the program.

The drive will continue through Thursday when it is hoped by the committee in charge that the necessary funds would be raised through cash donations and pledges.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1941

An old slogan might be revised to read: "Billions for defense but no more millions for governmental waste."

Much too early to start Halloweening — except for the pranks of strikers who think it's good fun to shut off electric lights in the midst of hospital operations.

Autumn has officially arrived—which reminds that Sunday traffic will now turn from the Lake Erie direction toward Mohican park and the Walhonding valley areas.

'Propaganda' Is What You Make It

THAT WORD, "propaganda," which started out innocently enough a few centuries ago in association with educating priests for mission work, has been in such bad company in recent years that it has become quite disreputable.

Stripped of the stigma that may be undeserved, "propaganda" is intended to disseminate knowledge, but to most persons it has come to mean the spread of nefarious doctrines of enemies, or political opponents, contrary to "facts" presented by like thinkers.

Broadly speaking, every spoken or written expression of opinion is propaganda, and every loyal citizen of this country is a propagandist for the American way of life.

Naturally enough, motion pictures contain "propaganda" —otherwise there would be little excuse for their existence. It needs no senate probe, or investigation by an unauthorized committee of isolationist senators, to reveal "propaganda" in pictures.

Writing recently on the Wheeler-Nye-Clark "investigation" of motion pictures, A. P. Waxman, a veteran publicity man, put it this way:

"Let's take a quick look at some of those propaganda pictures, "Boys Town," "One Foot In Heaven," "The Sign of the Cross," "The Crusaders"—just propaganda for religion.

"Goodbye Mr. Chips," "Cheers for Miss Bishop"—just propaganda for colleges.

"The Ten Commandments" — just propaganda for the Bible."

And there are a number of other motion pictures—propaganda for Americanism and for national defense—to which Senator Wheeler and his little group of isolationists interpose objection.

It was President Roosevelt who called attention, the other day, to a letter which a Connecticut citizen sent to Senator Wheeler's investigating committee:

"Have just been reading book called Holy Bible. Has large circulation in this country. Written entirely by foreign born, mostly Jews. First part full of dangerous warmongering propaganda. Second condemns isolationists with fake story about Samaritan. Dangerous. Should be added to your list and suppressed."

Careful thought may lead to the conclusion that "propaganda," like many other things, can be good or bad, depending on the use that is made of it, and that the important thing—like with mushrooms—is to be able to distinguish between the healthful and the poisonous.

Speeding On City Streets

ARREST of two out-of-state motorists, plus one Ohio driver, for speeding at 52 miles an hour on Park avenue west, inside the city limits, is to be commended—if it is to be made a general practice instead of an occasional enforcement effort, such as has been frequently experienced in Mansfield.

Mansfield corporation limits are plainly marked on all main highways and there is no excuse for local or transient motorists continuing at a speed exceeding 35 miles an hour after entering the city.

While there has thus far been no drastic action by the police department to enforce the specified maximum there is a growing inclination to frown on the much higher speeds —50 to 70 miles an hour—at which some motorists have been accustomed to drive on Park avenue west, Lexington avenue, and other streets that are a part of federal or state highways.

It is unavoidable that some complaints will be made by local and transient violators of traffic regulations but if anything is to be accomplished along this line, as was intended when a traffic squad was added to the police department, enforcement must be consistent and impartial.

As time is given for further progress in traffic law enforcement it will also be advisable for more motorists to learn that 25 miles an hour is the maximum legal speed on city streets which are not on state or federal highways and that 20 miles is the top speed permitted in business areas.

Toledo's Unpleasant Experience

EXCEPT for the milder nuisance of some rather wild driving and excessive horn-blowing, Mansfield escaped such an unpleasant occurrence as Toledo experienced last Friday night when a thousand high school pupils swarmed through the downtown area in what was described as "a hooliganish mob."

Complaints to police included charges of vandalism in stores, traffic snarls and yelling which disturbed residents and hotel guests.

The Toledo Blade, consistent booster for the schools and for youth activities, said: "Automobiles, some of them carrying a dozen youthful riders, sped up and down the main downtown streets. Adding to the confusion were roving bands of celebrators who attempted to direct traffic and block the paths of pedestrians."

Approach of the Halloween season—of which there has already been some local evidence—gives special timeliness to the Toledo episode as such manifestations of youthful rowdyism spring from the same general cause—lack of home or school training in such matters as the rights of others and voluntary observance of laws essential to orderly government.

BEFORE, rather than after such an occurrence, is the proper time to warn against it—so that Mansfield and other Ohio cities may escape the feeling of concern and shame that has been expressed by E. L. Bowsher, superintendent of Toledo schools, and the stern warning issued by authorities to school pupils that, "unless they conduct themselves in a proper manner from now on, the police are instructed to take care of them as they would any other offender disturbing the peace."

It is said that television broadcasting is adversely affected by normal operation of automobiles—but if it's to be a choice between the two, television will probably have to wait awhile longer.

Milk is going up in price—but that's the whey of life.

Better Die Standing!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S a line in Ernest Hemingway's tremendous book, Whom the Bell Tolls," that you can't shake. It goes ringing through you like a trumpet . . . challenging you . . . giving a new meaning to your life, no matter how desperate your plight.

The five men, dragging themselves along that wooded hillside, were in a very desperate plight. For days—or was it years?—they had been ducking death, in this strange civil war they could not understand. They had started lustily enough, knowing only that Spain needed them. They had started in as men—strong, angry men, filled with purpose and pride. But now they were only hunted beasts — snuffling, fumbling, clawing at their lice . . . They moved with difficulty for they were no longer whole. Pieces of them were gone. They pulled themselves along on fragments of hands and legs.

But harder to bear than the holes gouged in their bodies were the pieces torn from their hearts —those hearts which had sucked in the love of Spain from their mothers' breasts. They had no fine phrases to express that love, being, for the most part, poor, illiterate peasants. But phrases were no longer necessary. When it comes to the end, a peasant rates with a king. For a man can give no more than his life. They had given theirs. Now, in a few hours, perhaps in a few minutes, it would be all over.

Until then, they could only go on . . . climbing . . . digging shallow tranches . . . squatting behind their guns . . . spitting out stray mouthfuls of words as men do around a last campfire, knowing they will not come again. So it was, out of seeming idleness, that the boy Joaquin croaked, his lips being broken:

"PASSIONARIA SAYS IT IS BETTER TO DIE ON YOUR FEET THAN TO LIVE ON YOUR KNEES."

He went on digging. The others looked at each other furtively. Then went on digging too.

It was not well to speak of death at a time like this, when death was already in the room. They were older. They knew. So they did not answer Joaquin directly. Instead they bantered him and each other . . . making light of his words . . . tossing them about as if they were a heel of bread.

But inside themselves, they did not make light. The words moved them. They knew, for a truth, that the words were bread . . . bread they had lived on all their lives and for which they were now about to die. A man might not have much—not even a skin of wine to wet his withered throat, not even a bandage for his rotting feet. Still there was something that no one could take away from him.

No one could take away his love of freedom . . . nor the pride he felt in fighting for that freedom . . . nor his contempt for a man who would be a slave rather than fight.

"BETTER TO DIE ON YOUR FEET THAN TO LIVE ON YOUR KNEES—"

The words drifted vaguely through their heads. They were far gone. They could not remember words well. But they could feel them working through their blood. They could feel them working like good wine . . . old wine that had lost its raw froth . . . that warmed a man and steadied his spine. They could feel them like honest bread . . . bread in which a starving man could set his teeth:

"BETTER TO DIE ON YOUR FEET THAN TO LIVE ON YOUR KNEES—"

Strong words, those. To be free and not afraid . . . to believe in something greater than yourself . . . to fight for it and, if need be, die for it . . . to live or die with your head high rather than drooping—that was all that any man needed for a good life, no matter who he was or what he did. Whether you were a peasant, sowing onions and peas in the warm, dark earth, or a peasant's wife, suckling her babe and, through that babe, her nation . . . or a soldier throwing grenades . . . those words would see you through.

"BETTER TO DIE ON YOUR FEET THAN TO LIVE ON YOUR KNEES."

Good words. Words all the world is needing today. Words we must clutch increasingly — you and I.

Timely Editorial

Trouble Brewing.

The increasing number of reports of revolt and sabotage in Nazi-conquered European countries only serves to emphasize the intensity of the feeling against German domination.

It must be remembered that to utter a word against Hitler or his "New Order" is to risk immediate arrest and imprisonment. To be caught in any act of forceful resistance to the regime means almost inevitable death. And if the Gestapo agents can't find the guilty party when trouble occurs, they don't hesitate to punish someone else.

In the face of this danger, it must take a terrific amount of courage to harass the conqueror. Yet the reports of revolt grow more numerous. From Norway, Denmark, Poland, Czechoslovakia; the Netherlands, Belgium, France, Yugoslavia, Greece—the stories vary only in details.

It's all part of the handwriting on the wall that says that Hitler has bitten off more than he can chew and that one day his whole house of cards will fall—Akron Beacon Journal.

FREDRICK D. POWER, minister of the Disciples of Christ, became nationally known when President Garfield, after his inauguration on March 4 1881, became a member of the Washington Avenue Christian church.

Mr. Power was a man of scholarly tastes, a preacher of more than ordinary gifts and a writer of ability. From 1881 to 1883 he was chaplain of the house of representatives. He was graduated from Bethany college in 1871, remaining there for a short time as instructor.

President Garfield was not only his parishoner but his intimate friend. Rev. Power was the preacher of the former's funeral sermon in September, 1881.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

The Joy of Memory.

This, then is comfort far beyond
All words we say in praise,—
That we can bring again the scenes
Of other years and days.

I will remember, going back
In retrospect, so much
That we enjoyed, a grief that now
Is softened by time's touch.

I will remember you, as you
Were dear in youth's lost day,
So blessed it is that we can
Relive old years' array.

Not once but many times; can find
By simple will what we
Desire to find once more, and then
Those things can feel and see.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Grab Glory From Real Inventors Of Amazing New Ocean Ships

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The president doesn't realize it, but his beloved navy has been giving him the royal runaround right under his nose on more things than one. Most recent and amazing runaround was regarding the new mystery ships called "Sea Otters."

These are flat steel barges with a 10-foot draft—so shallow that they are almost impossible targets for submarines. Submarine torpedoes would pass right underneath them. Propelled by automobile engines, these ships can be manufactured so rapidly that they are expected to be the miracle bridge across the Atlantic in defiance of Hitler's submarines.

Yet it took the president weeks to persuade his navy to build these ships!

The inside story sounds like one of those "It Can't Happen Here" plots—but it did. The men who actually designed the new sea barges were a young naval officer, Commander Ham Bryan, and a naval architect, W. S. Burgess.

But when they took their plans to the navy, the admirals threw up their hands. So did the Maritime Commission.

The admirals and the commissioners both claimed that a flat-bottomed boat would turn over in heavy seas. Also they were opposed to the use of automobile engines, even though they could be manufactured as fast as Ford makes automobiles. There were a dozen other objections.

But finally Commander Bryan took his plan to Roland Redmond, a New York lawyer who married Sara Delano, a Roosevelt relative. Redmond in turn took Bryan and Burgess to the White House. The president, who is something of an amateur naval designer, was immediately enthusiastic. He urged the navy to try it out. The president also asked John Hancock of Lehman Brothers to help raise some money.

So with Roosevelt's encouragement, plus the cooperation of Redmond and Hancock who helped raise the money, plus Chrysler who helped make the motors, and Weaver Associates, naval architects, the first model was constructed. Then the navy tried it out on a testing basin and finally admitted the plan was feasible.

By this time Secretary Knox and the admirals began to see that Bryan and Burgess had something. Whereupon they proceeded to take over the idea, lock, stock and barrel.

Joseph W. Powell, an old Chicago friend of Frank Knox, who is now one of his assistants barged into the picture. Powell was once vice president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company, and he brought in another ex-vice president of Bethlehem, E. B. Germain, now head of the Dunlop Tire and Rubber company.

Meanwhile Commander Bryan, the man who had originated this submarine-proof ship, suddenly found himself euchred out of the navy. First he was retired, and then detailed to the office of the secretary of the navy, where he could help with the plans of his mystery ship. This meant that the navy could get his services at retired pay instead of full pay.

Since then, Commander Bryan, though almost ignored by navy brasshats, has been working faithfully at Orange, Texas, to construct the first trans-Atlantic scow. At one time, just as the vessel was about to be launched, he and Burgess were even told to stay away from the shipyard.

No Thanks to Inventors.

SHORTLY after the vessel was launched, the navy issued a very heavily larded press release, part of which read: "The ship was conceived by daring minds and was carried to completion with the active, insistent help of President Roosevelt."

This veiled and highly remote reference was the only piece of naval credit given to Bryan and Burgess. Not only were they excluded from the navy's publicity, but the navy set up its own corporation, with money advanced by the RFC, to take over their invention. The corporation includes: E. B. Germain, as president and general manager; J. W. Powell, assistant to Knox; and Admiral Emory Land of the Maritime Commission, who had vigorously opposed the boat.

Thus those who opposed, rather than the inventors who fought to get the "Sea Otter" constructed, will be in charge of constructing this vital bridge across the Atlantic.

Press Conference.

WASHINGTON newsmen, after seeing Roosevelt twice a week for eight years, have only dull impressions when they walk into a press conference. A fresh impression comes from Jack Moffitt, ace Hollywood reporter, who saw the president the other day for the first time.

"There was charm in the setting," Moffitt said. "The mementoes on his desk indicate a man of imagination who can extract pleasant memories from past experiences. . . . He costumes well. Hoover's choker collar became a symbol of Tory America. Coolidge dressed like a small town banker. Roosevelt avoids the foppish, but hits a certain suburban ease in his dress which sells quickly to the public.

"He was impressive in handling himself. There was ease and frankness, and a quickness in response to questions. He was at all times master of the interview.

"I was struck by his paleness and the lines in his face, contradicting the smirk I've seen in a thousand cartoons. If I were a casting director, looking for an actor for this part, I'd cast him as a man who is working hard under great strain."

Under War Secretary.

NEWSMEN sat three deep around a long polished table in the new war department building. They fired questions at the man with a sun-tanned face sitting at the head of the table. He was the under secretary of war.

What's the T-6 tank like? . . . Are M-3 tanks available for the maneuvers? . . . Did the French find the 75 mm. tank gun effective? . . . What is the altitude range of the 90 mm. anti-aircraft gun? . . . Is the army in Iceland? . . . What do you think about the Russian resistance?

He ducked the last two questions, but answered all the technical questions with the assurance of a soldier trained all his life in ordnance.

But he isn't a life-long soldier. He is a lawyer, an ex-circuit court judge, who scarcely a year ago was concerned with such non-military subjects as the reorganization of the New York subway.

This was a press conference with Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson. A judge in 1940, he is a soldier in 1941, with a complete grasp of the technical information of his job.

Merry-Go-Round.

THE PRESIDENT is wearing a black four-in-hand tie these days, as well as the black armband. . . . Latest addition to Roosevelt's trinket-laden desk is a white porcelain figure of Churchill with a cigar in his mouth. . . . With instructions about the aluminum campaign, a letter went out from the OPM over the signature of Thornton R. Smith, which referred to "The Conversation Department of the OPM."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There is no magic formula for reading a play and predicting its success on the stage. If there were, all producers would be rich and there would never be any failures. A manuscript that looks like it can't miss frequently turns out to be sad fish behind the footlights, and you can verify this easily enough by counting the little white crosses on Broadway street corners that mark the spot where theatrical producers have guessed wrong.

Nevertheless this corner a few weeks ago got hold of a script by William Hazlitt Brennan called "The Wookey" and promptly went haywire to the extent of saying that it would turn into the first successful drama of the year.

"The Wookey's premiere is Broadway history now — and it does seem at this writing that it is on the way to being just that. There wasn't a dissenting vote among critics. It's a play about an old codger who epitomizes John Bull. . . . He fights with Churchill and he fights with Hitler. . . . When he takes his tugboat and goes to Dunkirk, he makes it clear that he is going only to rescue his brother-in-law. That he brings back a sizable portion of the BEF is beside the point. Later, they want to give him a medal, but he screams, "Hell, give me my boat back."

"The Wookey has magnificent sound effects — an authentic air raid with all its attendant screams and bombs, recorded in London and brought over here. It's probably the closest thing to a real raid this little old town of New York will ever see, I hope, I hope, I hope. . . .

AT long last one of Broadway's great characters gets into the movies. . . . They are going to film the life of Tony Pastor. . . . Tony has been dead I don't know how many years, but his theater was the goal of vaudeville artists long before the Palace uptown became the vaudeville canitol of the world Ask Eddie Cantor about Tony. Ask Al Jolson. . . .

Now Tony comes to life again, on the screen. Who will reap the real benefits of this plug? Why, Tony Pastor, of course. Not THE Tony Pastor. . . . It's the young Tony Pastor, the band leader. . . . He isn't any kin o the original Tony. . . . As a matter of record, his real name is Tony Pastorino. . . . But, it will be pleasant seeing that name on marquees over the country, and hearing people pronounce it.

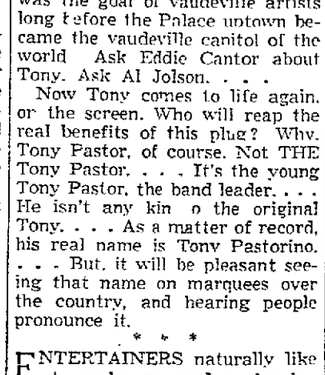
ENTERTAINERS naturally like to make as good a showing as possible, especially when pitted against their rivals. So it seems worthwhile to mention a little gesture on the part of Ed Sullivan, the columnist and vaudeville master of ceremonies, who was playing in opposition to Tommy Dorsey at the State on Broadway the other day. Dorsey was at the Paramount, just across the way. . . . It was a sort of special presentation for Dorsey that day, because it marked the day when the seventh millionth customer had been drawn through the turnstiles since he has appeared through the seasons at the Paramount.

For this occasion Ed Sullivan left his own show and came across to the Paramount to M. C. Dorsey's show for him. It was impromptu. It was a lot of fun, and I think the customers as well as the members of Tommy's band appreciated it.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT



"If the way I've been acting has worn you to a frazzle, Mom . . . why don't you go to bed instead of sending me?"

A Farmer's Diary

Why Hurry So?

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I OFTEN stand by our gravel road and watch the cars go by—40, 50, 60 miles per hour. The drivers clutch the steering wheel in tense positions, the passengers hold to the strap or the latches of the door. Somebody yells my name, but I cannot look up quickly enough to recognize the owner of the voice. The school bus, a small station wagon now, stops on our barn bridge with a neighbor's family on, and honks until our children run to meet it.

The days of leisurely travel—the horse and buggy days—are gone. Luxurious family cars and efficient transportation trucks have taken with them golden hours of meditation, quiet moments of rest and relaxation, fleet seconds of delight in common little present day things.

Why hurry so, when days are just as long now as they were in early youth? Then autumn fields were green and cool with lush blue grass and dewy heads of goldenrod reflected rays of yellow against the gentle morning sun. Then we stood long moments in silent admiration watching the sky turn scarlet and merge into opal and soft pink, ushering in another day—and we added beauty to our lives.

Why hurry so, when one may walk leisurely along a murmuring brook and listen to its delicate overtones of song? Long it has flowed, perhaps, without a single listening ear. The bank is clothed in purple iron weed, green towering thistles where the goldfinches play, sweet scented mint, luscious milkweed flower and dancing wild sunflowers. Why not stand on the brink and feel the rich cool odors that rise above the glassy surface, look at the reflections of the clouds, the deep blue sky, the waning moon?

Why not tarry on the hillsides among white and purple asters that gently press against you, almost shouting for a touch of human interest? Why not listen, in such an atmosphere, to the song of the wood peewee, high up on a scarlet berried thorn tree, or the frisky gray squirrel's bark from a nearby hickory?

Why hurry so, when in the roadside ditch yellow butterflies congregate on moist green clods and fresh clusters of grapes upon the bank shine beneath yellowing leaves, and send forth tantalizing odors?

Do not go in haste. Listen, rather, to the sweet rare call of the wild as it comes, liquid, plaintive, almost human from the throat of a mother quail calling her precious brood together for the night.

BLACK BOOM + + + + + +

By Paul David Preston

CHAPTER IX

Lillian felt a quick intuitive moment of fear when she saw Martin Deale step forward. She couldn't have said what she feared, but she had long known Martin's impetuous nature. Twice already he and Dr. Dallas Tower had clashed. If his hatred of Dallas had become unreasoning, it at least was genuine, she knew.

Then in the same instant, Thad and M. J. stepped out.

"Glad you got here when you did, Dallas," Thad raised his voice, grasping Martin's right arm in comradely manner. As if casually, he had moved directly in front of Martin, and M. J. closed in to turn him. "We three had an appointment with an oil man and we're already late, but we didn't want to leave the ladies unattended. Take over for a while, will you? We'll be checking back in."

"Oh sure, Thad," Dallas nodded. "Glad to."

"I say—" Martin began to protest, but it was promptly covered by Thad's affability, Lillian observed. She, if not the others with her, sensed that Thad and M. J. had acted with a purpose. And she was grateful for it as she watched the two escort Martin off into the crowd.

* * *

It was the closely packed crowd of dancers around them which prevented Martin's making any more effective protest; that and Thad's hearty conversation, at which he was an artist. They had reached the sidewalk before Martin managed to speak again.

"What is the meaning of this?" he demanded.

"Had to make talky-talk with you about an investment, Mart," Thad was all set for him. "Now if this oil is going to make some people rich, you and M. J. and I might as well—"

"But did you have to force me away in that pre-emptory manner?"

"Aw, pardon us for that—never thought, I guess—but business won't wait for—"

"See here, Thad, I'm no fool! I know you forced me away from Tower. And I wish to tell you that I can take care of myself!"

"Look," M. J., slower of speech, tried to put in a word. Thad and I just figured that as friends—"

"I need no assistance from friends or any one else!"

Thad Monroe took the reins again then, and with the force that seemed inevitable. "Okay, pal, okay; you'll get it straight. Matter of fact, we did take you away from Tower, but we tried to do it so everybody could save face, see? You got smacked in the puss once today, and I hear you have a hangover bellyache, too. Well, we don't want any more of it! Somebody had to get you told!"

"I resent—!"

"Resent, hell, Mart! Understand now, I'm still your friend. It's why I'm in it, me and M. J. both. We happen to know you're packing a gun right now. We don't intend for you to make a fool of yourself with it."

That statement sobered Martin momentarily. In fact it embarrassed him, flustered him. His face went sullen but he said no more.

Thad decided to make the lecture a complete one while he was about it. The three had edged over into the entry way of Crim's furniture store, several feet from possible listeners and in a comparatively dark spot.

"Now you've been acting as if Lillian were your wife or fiancee," Thad went on. "Say she does like you a lot. So what? She likes me, too. And M. J. But hell, we don't own the girl! Not yet, at least. Now I'm frank to say I'd marry Lillian in a minute if she'd have me, but if this Tower mug can cut in and do his stuff, why it's up to Lillian to stop him, not us. I intend to furnish him what competition I can. And anyway, dammit Mart, he's just the New-Guy-In-Town! You've seen that before. I was it a few years back, myself. It all calms down!"

M. J. was nodding. "That's right, that's right," he said.

"That's not the point!" snapped Martin. "He has come in here as a stranger and outrageously subjected Lillian to—"

"Nuts! You've been reading a book. Anyway, my fran, you stay away from the Mayfields tonight. The women and whoever's with 'em. I think the oil boom's just got you down. Sleep on it, Mart, eh? And, give me that gun!"

Thad's tone and manner were so unmistakably friendly, his words so sensible, that Martin offered no protest. Thad took the pistol from under Martin's double-breasted coat, broke it and removed the cartridges, then casually dropped it in his own pocket.

"Now forget it," he said, "and let's go on back and play. There's other girls who need a little squiring."

For more than half a century Rangeville had lived quietly in its routine of cotton and corn and pine lumber, a new product—black and greasy—with electric suddenness was upsetting the whole economic scheme.

"It's a black boom!" wrote Garland Harris, editor of Rangeville's 54-year-old weekly. "The more black grease on a man this week, the richer he is!" Garland had already borrowed the money to convert his weekly, circulation 1,109, into a daily paper with Press Association dispatches. He expected a daily circulation of 10,000 before the boom reached its peak.

On that first afternoon a special train came in from Houston, bearing capitalists, geologists, engineers, lawyers. Big firms from as far east as New York City sent representatives down in airplanes (they had to land in Coover's pasture for want of a better field). The one tiny telegraph office was completely swamped, as were all other business establishments.

That night of the dance people paid as high as $5 each for a blanket on a rug in private homes. Some slept on roofs. Every private home that would admit them was filled with "boarders." Old Deke Daingerfield, Rangeville's only night watchman, said he counted more than 50 men sleeping in their automobiles. Smith Park, which was just an acre of oaks where nobody had built a house and where a Mr. Smith lay in his 40-year-old tomb, became a camping-out spot for who could do no better.

At noon two days after it blew in the gusher was still gushing and still burning, a great livid advertisement of the wealth discovered here. News reel men and newspaper photographers had flown over and around it getting pictures. A Texas radio chain had conducted four half-hour programs within a quarter-mile of the well. Thad Monroe, who enjoyed being everywhere that life was interesting, managed to fly with the news men and to be in on two of the broadcasts.

Thad made friends with Thomas Jewel Buck, the distinguished old lawyer from Houston. When he did Mr. Buck a simple favor that netted the lawyer's company at least half a million dollars in lease money, Mr. Buck reciprocated in kind. Thad Monroe cleared, thereby, more than $20,000 cash in one week. He went to Mr. Buck with a piece of jewelry, thanks token.

"Needn't have brought this, son," Mr. Buck asserted. "You favored me first, took me to the right man at the right moment, and anyway I like you. I may be able to help you some more yet. And some of your friends, if they can dig up a little money to put in."

Thad rushed to M. J. Parker, Martin Deale, and — after due thought—to Dallas Tower. He loaned M. J. $5,000 to use, and offered as much to the other two. Both these declined it, but for different reasons.

"I'll never forget it, old man," Dallas said over and over, and meant it. "But I have no security to offer. I'll climb slowly until I'm sure of myself."

"Your intentions are doubtless commendable, Thad," Martin told him, "but the whole oil thing is contemptible in my sight!"

"Nuts, Mart. Money is money, if it's clean."

"I have sufficient income, thank you. And I have my art."

"Oh sure, sure. I didn't mean that. I—well, I see your point. Some people can be—uh—happier without trying to make money every day. I think you're smart there. Just wanted to see if you were interested."

"Martin's none-too-cordial refusal dampened him for a while, but toward the end of that day Thad screwed up courage to go to Mrs. Millicent Mayfield, in private. He considered her his friend. And to a man of Thad Monroe's rare unselfishness, a friend was a person with whom to share good things. Nevertheless he stood in awe of Mrs. Mayfield's "position" and background.

Their talk was a little formal, at first. Thad had decided that he could even lend her $1,000 to invest, if she had no ready money. But he couldn't think of a graceful way of offering it. To imply that she needed money might be a technical insult to a family as proud as hers. Thad even chuckled a bit to himself, thinking what old Jason Weems would say about such a thing.

STATE GARDEN MEET CONVENES AT LELAND

Registration Opened One Day Session of Garden Club of Ohio Meeting; Program Periods Occupy Morning, Followed By Election of Officers.

THREE hundred and fifty delegates from 150 affiliated clubs were registered here today for the state meeting of the Garden Club of Ohio. Presidents and delegates from the Mansfield garden clubs are hostesses for the one day session which opened at 9:30 a. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

One of the highlight sessions for the day will be the election of officers to take place following the luncheon at noon in the hotel ballroom. In accordance with the proposed change in the constitution, the nominating committee offers an uncontested slate. It is expected that Mrs. William A. Moeller of Macedonia will be re-elected as president of the state group. Included in this list of officers will be Mrs. Louis J. Ott, jr., of Mansfield, who will probably be re-elected recording secretary. She is the only Mansfielder to serve on the state board.

New regional vice presidents listed on the slate include Mrs. William A. Baker of Akron, for the Akron district; Mrs. James L. Amerman of Canton, for the Canton district; Mrs. W. B. Ensor of Warren for the Youngstown district. Through an amendment to the constitution the office of first vice president has been added to the list of officers. Mrs. L. V. Traghagen of Massillon, who was the former vice president, will no doubt be advanced to that position.

Presidents of the Mansfield clubs and the visiting organizations met for a business session in the club room at the hotel at 10 a. m. Mrs. Moeller was in charge and discussion was held concerning the duties of the clubs and their federated activities. Local club presidents in attendance were Mrs. Howard Peck of the Buckeye club, Mrs. C. V. McConnell of the Astowela club, Mrs. George Price, of the Town and Country club, Mrs. Charles Sheriff of the Cottage club, Mrs. Carville Gorman of the Mansfield club, Mrs. Dane Valentine of the Royal Regal club, Mrs. Ray Hammer of the Linnaeus club, Mrs. Carl Gibson of the Johnny Appleseed Garden club and Mrs. Charles Birch of the Garden Study club.

A group of outstanding speakers were invited to lecture at the morning forums.

Garden Center slides and a lecture from the National Council of State Garden clubs in New York City featured the first session in the Garden Center headquarters at the Public Library at 10 a. m. Members of the Cottage Garden club of Mansfield had arranged attractive displays for the room in keeping with the observance of Johnny Appleseed week.

Mrs. Howard Miller, club chairman for the decorations, assisted by Mrs. Frederick Crouse, general chairman of the Garden Center, arranged the unusual decorations which consisted of an apple tree which attractively framed the large window; vines, berries, flowers and vegetable displays. A unique feature of the exhibits was a screen on which was painted a sketch of Johnny Appleseed by Miss Jean Wentz, daughter of Mrs. Sherman Wentz of the Cottage club.

At 11:15 a. m., "Conservation" was the subject of the lecture given at the Garden Center by George Williams of the Cuyahoga County Council of Conservation.

Herbert Meyer of Cleveland was the guest speaker at 10 a. m. at the Public Library. His subject was "School Gardens." Following that discussion period C. M. Shipman of Willoughby showed slides and gave an illustrated lecture on "Birds and Their Value to Your Garden" at the Library. Mrs. W. B. Ensor of Warren addressed a group at the hotel at 10 a. m. on "Programs and Projects," later turning over the assembly to Mrs. Herman Brandmiller of Youngstown, who talked on "Horticulture." In the club room at the hotel Mrs. Louis Heller, jr., of Youngstown, spoke at 11:15 a. m. on "Flower Shows." She also displayed many attractive arrangements.

Delegates had their choice of subjects and could attend at least two meetings during the morning period. This afternoon they will visit the gardens at the Louis Bromfield home, Malabar, also the estate of Donald Black. Other garden pilgrimages will consist of four tours with guests being conducted on one of the selected four.

Closing the day's program will be a buffet supper at the Raemelton Riding hall at 5:30 p. m.

Included in the list of guests are Miss Etta Wilson of WHK, Cleveland, Miss Helen Grant Wilson, garden editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Miss Ethel Myers, society editor of the Akron Beacon Journal and Mrs. Kate Clapp, garden editor of the Akron Beacon Journal and Paul Young, garden editor of the Cleveland News.

MISS LANDIS MARRIES IN PLYMOUTH TODAY

St. Joseph's Catholic Church Is Scene of Pretty Wedding for Shiloh Girl and Rudy Ebinger of Lorain This Morning at 10 O'Clock.

THE PICTURESQUE St. Joseph's Catholic church in Plymouth was the scene of the open church wedding for Miss Anna Mae Landis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McBride of Shiloh and Rudy Paul Ebinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ebinger of Lorain, this morning at 10 o'clock. Father Clement Geppert officiated for the nuptial high mass read in the presence of many relatives and friends.

Nuptial music was played by Mrs. C. B. Walker, organist, whose selection was "Ave Maria." Marriage vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with palms and beauty baskets of white pompons and white asters. Tall seven branch candelabra illuminated the background of green and white. Pews for the members of the immediate families were marked off by small bouquets of white asters tied with green ribbon.

Miss Landis, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely bridal gown of white satin made with a short train. The dress was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with trapunto in orange blossom design. Long leg-o-mutton sleeves came to points at the wrist and tiny white satin buttons trimmed the back of the dress from the neckline to the waist. Her finger tip length illusion veil was held in place with a tiara of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses, swansonia and gardenias, tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. R. F. Lofland of Shiloh, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. Her formal taffeta gown was in a pastel green with quilted bolero jacket. She wore a cameo necklace, gift from the bride. Her fan shaped bouquet was composed of white pompons and ferns tied with green satin ribbon.

R. V. Donahue of Lorain, close friend of the bridegroom, was best man.

Ushers who escorted the guests to their seats were Robert Moser and Dean Ruckman, both of Shiloh.

Mrs. McBride, mother of the bride, appeared at the wedding in a green frock with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Ebinger wore a Defense blue frock with black accessories and a similar corsage.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the Darling home in Shiloh with 30 guests in attendance. A three tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table and the room was decorated with mixed bouquets of garden flowers.

In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ebinger will leave for an eastern and southern trip to include Washington, D. C., the Skyline drive and the Smoky mountains. She has chosen a blue wool tailored costume suit with wine accessories for traveling. She will also wear a gardenia corsage taken from her bridal bouquet.

Until Nov. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Ebinger will reside at 839 West 22nd street, after which they will be located at their new home, 1960 Cleveland Boulevard.

The bride was graduated from Shiloh high school and the Mansfield School of Cosmetology. Mr. Ebinger was graduated from Lorain high school, Elyria Business college, Cleveland Advertising school and attended Cleveland college. He is a member of the Lorain Country club and is secretary to the Lorain Coal Dealers' association. At the present time he is office manager of the Ebinger Coal company in Lorain. Mrs. Ebinger has been employed at the Myers Beauty shop in Plymouth.

Attending the wedding from Mansfield were Mrs. Marie Menchan and Mrs. Harrison Landis.

Party Honors Esther Pfaff, Bride-Elect

Miss Esther Pfaff, bride-elect of John Schuckman, was feted with a miscellaneous shower recently at her home, 623 West Fourth street, by her sisters, Miss Martha Pfaff and Mrs. Jean Hurley. Miss Pfaff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pfaff, will become the bride of Mr. Schuckman, Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at the home of her parents on West Fourth street. Rev. H. E. Tropf will officiate at the ceremony. Miss Martha Pfaff, sister of the bride-elect, and John Mohler will attend the couple.

The evening was spent socially by the twelve guests attending the party. The evening prize was awarded to Miss Anabel Strong. A two-course luncheon was served at a long table centered with an attractive arrangement of garden flowers and decorated with lighted tapers. Gifts were presented to the honoree by the guests and the hostesses presented her with bedroom accessories. Mrs. Ray Beal and Mrs. William Todd will entertain for Miss Pfaff at the Beal home on Bartley avenue Thursday evening. Mrs. Thomas Clark and Miss Frances Brown will be hostesses at a party for the bride-elect to be held Friday evening at the Brown home on West Third street.

Master Barbers Auxiliary Meets

Members of the Auxiliary to the Associated Master Barbers held a meeting Tuesday evening at Prospect park. During the business session plans were made for a Halloween party to be held in October. Mrs. Charles Schmunk was named chairman of the refreshment committee and Mrs. Kenneth McClure appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for this party.

Following the business session the members held a white elephant exchange. Cards and games were played and prizes won by Mrs. J. D. Mathys, Mrs. Robert Taylor, Charles Schmunk, Mrs. McClure, Curtis Zimmerman and Shannon Lowe. The hostesses, Mrs. Lowe and Mrs. Schmunk, served luncheon at the close of the meeting. The next session will be held Oct. 28 at the park.

By MARIAN MARTIN

The hit of school and campus everywhere is the jumper-and-blouse ensemble! Marian Martin designs the smartest one—Pattern 9870. The jumper has a deep neckline, a round high-cut back, a simple skirt. It has only four main pattern pieces—you'll have it done in no time with the Sew Chart's guidance. Two darts fit in above the waist both front and back and the belt is set in, either plain, or trimmed in front with a pointed tab and a row of buttons. The blouse is simply tailored—a wide collar has that "ingenue" look, the sleeves are long and gathered into a wrist-band, or short with a deep hem Make the jumper up in serviceable wool or corduroy.

Pattern 9870 may be ordered only in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Size 13, jumper, requires 1¾ yards 54 inch fabric and blouse, 1⅞ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address, and Style Number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I barely had time for a joyous aside, "It's Dicky!" to the others before my husband's voice came to my ears.

"Hello! Sweet! Are you all right? Haven't been running into any more collisions with the powers of evil, have you?"

His tone was the confident one of a man who had left his wife in the care of a trusted relative, bound for a conservative and luxurious hotel What he would say when he learned of the bandit who had so nearly choked me, I could only imagine, but this was no time to enlighten him.

"Not any more than usual," I said airily. "How about you?"

"Absolutely in the pink" he answered, and then my father's imperative gesture made me say quickly: "Father wants to talk to you," and I surrendered the telephone to the Chief."

"Hello! Richard!" he began, using his full name as he always does — neither my father nor Dicky's mother calls us anything but "Richard" and "Margaret"—"have you seen Ronald?"

Dickys reply evidently was an affirmative one, for the next query was staccato.

"Wh- did he tell you?"

My father's face was impassive as he listened, but his voice held an imperative note when he spoke next.

"The men are there? You have contacted them? Good! Now please jot these instructions down."

He paused for only a second, and then swept on

Instructions for Dicky.

"Place those men at some point near your starting place, an inconspicuous point where their joining the party will not arouse comment. Tell them what you may have to expect of them—you will find they are ready for anything.

"Have them leave the car within one-quarter mile of your destination—as near as possible—use your judgment about that. And when you have delivered your parcel, you need have no more concern for its safety. I have made all arrangements which I will explain to you when I see you.

"As for Ronald, Margaret has given him all instructions which he should repeat to you. Have him leave the car at the first station beyond Dalemont, and come directly to the hotel here. A room will be ready for him here, and he will be registered.

"Now, as for yourself, dear boy"—to my surprise—and uneasiness—my father's voice lacked its usual steadiness—"please be careful! On second thought, instruct those two men to wait for you, and bring them back to New York with you."

There evidently was a quick protest from Dicky on that, for my father said sharply:

"But I think it is necessary, and in this instance, I must ask you to bow to my judgment. Tell them we will ship them back to their headquarters as soon as they have come in here and reported to me.

"Come back to New York as quickly as you can with safety after you have delivered your charge. Keep your eyes open for any suspicious incidents on the way, and when you have reached the city, get in touch with me immediately by telephone. I will be either at the Underwoods, the hotel here, or at the place in the village. And now, I suppose you wish to speak to Margaret again. But I must ask you to be brief."

He held out the telephone to me, and I took it mechanically. But there was nothing mechanical in the whispered question I flung at him, the while I covered the mouthpiece with my hand.

"Be Careful."

"Father! Is Dicky in danger?"

"No more than you are—or the rest of us," he said quietly "He simply is more reckless than any of us."

I did not believe him, but I could not gainsay him, and as Dicky was calling "Madge! Are you there?" into the receiver, I spoke quickly in answer.

"Yes, Dicky, I am right here. Promise me you'll be careful!"

I heard an amused chuckle.

"I thought that would come as soon as you heard the Dad," he said. "And I promise solemnly to go out now, find the nearest hardware store, and invest in a suit of armor, with a chain shirt visor, n'everything"

"Please, Dicky," I said miserably

"Oh, sorry, Sweet!" he exclaimed contritely. "But seriously, I'm in no possible danger, and I promise you, 'pon honor, I'll be careful And remember I love you."

"And I love you," I said softly "Good-bye," and hung up the receiver, to find my father looking at me tenderly, although I knew he was suppressing his impatience with difficulty.

"I know, my darling," he said. "But action is the best antidote for anxiety. Put on your hat and coat, and we will start for the Underwoods."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOUR HARDEST PROBLEM

There is one problem in bridge which is much harder to solve than that of coping with your opponents It is a question of what to do if you have a partner who is a confirmed over-bidder. Every balanced and versatile cardsman pays heed to protecting himself against this danger, not by deliberately underbidding himself, but usually making the weakest of various alternative bids which might be considered sound. Even then, he may have to play his head off because of the sublime confidence reposed in his playing ability by a partner who raises him too high.

Holder of the national individual masters' championship, Lee Hazen of New York as brilliant at playing hands as he is in a court of law, was in the South. He is also as canny in handling psychological situations at the bridge table.

So, when North opened with 1-Club, he did not answer with 2-Hearts, as he would with most partners but only a tentative 1-Heart However the over-bidder jumped to 2-No Trumps on a hand good enough for only 1-Spade or 1-No Trump He then made a mere tentative semi-psychic bid of 3-Diamonds to see what the whirling dervish would do next The rest is easy to see in the bidding stated including the use of the Blackwood convention.

It is a good thing Mr Hazen was playing the hand. He did a great job. After the spade K lead to the A, he built a double squeeze He took the heart K and A, then the club A and K for spade discards, and ruffed a club. He proceeded then with hearts.

As the last heart was laid down, he also held his three diamonds, retaining in dummy the diamond K 2, the club 8 and spade J. West could not throw off his spade Q, so discarded one of his three diamonds The spade J then discarded and East now was impossibly squeezed between the club Q to guard the 8 and his diamond J-7-6 to guard against South's third diamond, so the contract was made in gorgeous style.

Tomorrow's Problem.

What important principle of sound bidding is emphatically illustrated by this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Sept. 25.

Conflicting and contradictory astral influences dominate on this day. While there may be definite headway made in connection with public, community or fraternal organizations, with the hearty support of superiors, elders or those in place and power, yet there are sudden reversals, stubborn obstacles and other adverse situations to cope with. Benefits may be jeopardized by rash, impetuous and over aggressive moves, with strife, contention and ill-developed plans and objectives, where as well-organized and sound ideas, finesse, tact and sagacity would be lurative sweeping away barriers

Those whose birthday it is may be beset by a year of conflicting situations, in which their individual strategy, tact, sound ideas and good judgment may be determining factors. Sudden reversals, and tenacious obstructions, should be firmly met with determination, patience, well-organized propositions and foundations, which should break down barriers and win over opponents. Feminine wiles or intrigues are among the menacing encounters to be wisely manipulated or side stepped

A child born on this day while having much talent and versatility, with noble aims and aspirations, yet may suffer sudden reversals and deep obstacles. These may be vanquished by sound plans, cleverness and an eye to feminine treacheries.

STATE GARDEN MEET CONVENES AT LELAND

Registration Opened One Day Session of Garden Club of Ohio Meeting; Program Periods Occupy Morning, Followed By Election of Officers.

THREE hundred and fifty delegates from 150 affiliated clubs were registered here today for the state meeting of the Garden Club of Ohio. Presidents and delegates from the Mansfield garden clubs are hostesses for the one day session which opened at 9:30 a. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

One of the highlight sessions for the day will be the election of officers to take place following the luncheon at noon in the hotel ballroom. In accordance with the proposed change in the constitution, the nominating committee offers an uncontested slate. It is expected that Mrs. William A. Moeller of Macedonia will be re-elected as president of the state group. Included in this list of officers will be Mrs. Louis J. Ott, jr., of Mansfield, who will probably be re-elected recording secretary. She is the only Mansfielder to serve on the state board.

New regional vice presidents listed on the slate include Mrs. William A. Baker of Akron, for the Akron district; Mrs. James L. Amerman of Canton, for the Canton district; Mrs. W. B. Ensor of Warren for the Youngstown district. Through an amendment to the constitution the office of first vice president has been added to the list of officers. Mrs. L. V. Traghagen of Massillon, who was the former vice president, will no doubt be advanced to that position.

Presidents of the Mansfield clubs and the visiting organizations met for a business session in the club room at the hotel at 10 a. m. Mrs. Moeller was in charge and discussion was held concerning the duties of the clubs and their federated activities. Local club presidents in attendance were Mrs. Howard Peck of the Buckeye club, Mrs. C. V. McConnell of the Astowela club, Mrs. George Price, of the Town and Country club, Mrs. Charles Sheriff of the Cottage club, Mrs. Carville German of the Mansfield club, Mrs. Dane Valentine of the Royal Regal club, Mrs. Ray Hammer of the Linnaeus club, Mrs. Carl Gibson of the Johnny Appleseed Garden club and Mrs. Charles Birch of the Garden Study club.

A group of outstanding speakers were invited to lecture at the morning forums.

Garden Center slides and a lecture from the National Council of State Garden clubs in New York City featured the first session in the Garden Center headquarters at the Public Library at 10 a. m. Members of the Cottage Garden club of Mansfield had arranged attractive displays for the room in keeping with the observance of Johnny Appleseed week.

Mrs. Howard Miller, club chairman for the decorations, assisted by Mrs. Frederick Crouse, general chairman of the Garden Center, arranged the unusual decorations which consisted of an apple tree which attractively framed the large window; vines, berries, flowers and vegetable displays. A unique feature of the exhibits was a screen on which was painted a sketch of Johnny Appleseed by Miss Jean Wentz, daughter of Mrs. Sherman Wentz of the Cottage club.

At 11:15 a. m., "Conservation" was the subject of the lecture given at the Garden Center by George Williams of the Cuyahoga County Council of Conservation.

Herbert Meyer of Cleveland was the guest speaker at 10 a. m. at the Public Library, his subject "School Gardens." Following that discussion period C. M. Shipman of Willoughby showed slides and gave an illustrated lecture on "Birds and Their Value to Your Garden" at the Library. Mrs. W. B. Ensor of Warren addressed a group at the hotel at 10 a. m. on "Programs and Projects," later turning over the assembly to Mrs. Herman Brandmiller of Youngstown, who talked on "Horticulture." In the club room at the hotel Mrs. Louis Heller, jr., of Youngstown, spoke at 11:15 a. m. on "Flower Shows." She also displayed many attractive arrangements.

Delegates had their choice of subjects and could attend at least two meetings during the morning period. This afternoon they will visit the gardens at the Louis Bromfield home, Malabar, also the estate of Donald Black. Other garden pilgrimages will consist of four tours with guests being conducted on one of the selected four.

Closing the day's program will be a buffet supper at the Raemelton Riding hall at 5:30 p. m.

Included in the list of guests are Miss Etta Wilson of WHK, Cleveland, Miss Helen Grant Wilson, garden editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Miss Ethel Myers, society editor of the Akron Beacon Journal and Mrs. Kate Clapp, garden editor of the Akron Beacon Journal and Paul Young, garden editor of the Cleveland News.

State Garden Club Officers

Pictured above are several of the officers of the Garden Club of Ohio who are in Mansfield today to attend the one-day state convention. Left photo shows Mrs. William A. Moeller of Macedonia, president of the organization; in the upper right are seen Mrs. L. V. Traghagen of Massillon, vice president, with Mrs. Louis J. Ott., jr., of Mansfield, recording secretary, and general chairman of the state meeting. Lower right photo is of Mrs. George H. Leonard of Akron, who has served as regional vice president of the Akron district, with Mrs. D. La Mar Christy of Fremont, regional vice president of the Fremont district, of which Mansfield is a part.

Soulen not later than Friday by members wishing to attend this affair. All women golfers associated with the organization, if they have played this season or not, are cordially invited to attend.

MISS LANDIS MARRIES IN PLYMOUTH TODAY

St. Joseph's Catholic Church Is Scene of Pretty Wedding for Shiloh Girl and Rudy Ebinger of Lorain This Morning at 10 O'Clock.

THE PICTURESQUE St. Joseph's Catholic church in Plymouth was the scene of the open church wedding for Miss Anna Mae Landis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McBride of Shiloh and Rudy Paul Ebinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ebinger of Lorain, this morning at 10 o'clock. Father Clement Geppert officiated for the nuptial high mass read in the presence of many relatives and friends.

Nuptial music was played by Mrs. C. B. Walker, organist, whose selection was "Ave Maria." Marriage vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with palms and beauty baskets of white pompons and white asters. Tall seven branch candelabra illuminated the background of green and white. Pews for the members of the immediate families were marked off by small bouquets of white asters tied with green ribbon.

Miss Landis, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely bridal gown of white satin made with a short train. The dress was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with trapunto in orange blossom design. Long leg-o-mutton sleeves came to points at the wrist and tiny white satin buttons trimmed the back of the dress from the neckline to the waist. Her finger tip length illusion veil was held in place with a tiara of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses, swansonia and gardenias, tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. R. F. Lofland of Shiloh, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. Her formal taffeta gown was in a pastel green with quilted bolero jacket. She wore a cameo necklace, gift from the bride. Her fan shaped bouquet was composed of white pompons and ferns tied with green satin ribbon.

R. V. Donahue of Lorain, close friend of the bridegroom, was best man.

Ushers who escorted the guests to their seats were Robert Moser and Dean Ruckman, both of Shiloh.

Mrs. McBride, mother of the bride, appeared at the wedding in a green frock with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Ebinger wore a Defense blue frock with black accessories and a similar corsage.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the Darling home in Shiloh with 30 guests in attendance. A three tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table and the room was decorated with mixed bouquets of garden flowers.

In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ebinger will leave for an eastern and southern trip to include Washington, D. C., the Skyline drive and the Smoky mountains. She has chosen a blue wool tailored costume suit with wine accessories for traveling. She will also wear a gardenia corsage taken from her bridal bouquet.

Until Nov. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Ebinger will reside at 839 West 22nd street, after which they will be located at their new home, 1960 Cleveland Boulevard.

The bride was graduated from Shiloh high school and the Mansfield School of Cosmetology. Mr. Ebinger was graduated from Lorain high school, Elyria Business college, Cleveland Advertising school and attended Cleveland college. He is a member of the Lorain Country club and is secretary to the Lorain Coal Dealers' association. At the present time he is office manager of the Ebinger Coal company in Lorain. Mrs. Ebinger has been employed at the Myers Beauty shop in Plymouth.

Attending the wedding from Mansfield were Mrs. Marie Menchan and Mrs. Harrison Landis.

Party Honors Esther Pfaff, Bride-Elect

Miss Esther Pfaff, bride-elect of John Schuckman, was feted with a miscellaneous shower recently at her home, 623 West Fourth street, by her sisters, Miss Martha Pfaff and Mrs. Jean Hurley. Miss Pfaff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pfaff, will become the bride of Mr. Schuckman, Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at the home of her parents on West Fourth street. Rev. H. E. Tropf will officiate at the ceremony. Miss Martha Pfaff, sister of the bride-elect, and John Mohler will attend the couple.

The evening was spent socially by the twelve guests attending the party. The evening prize was awarded to Miss Anabel Strong. A two-course luncheon was served at a long table centered with an attractive arrangement of garden flowers and decorated with lighted tapers. Gifts were presented to the honoree by the guests and the hostesses presented her with bedroom accessories. Mrs. Ray Beal and Mrs. William Todd will entertain for Miss Pfaff at the Beal home on Bartley avenue Thursday evening. Mrs. Thomas Clark and Miss Frances Brown will be hostesses at a party for the bride-elect to be held Friday evening at the Brown home on West Third street.

Master Barbers Auxiliary Meets

Members of the Auxiliary to the Associated Master Barbers held a meeting Tuesday evening at Prospect park. During the business session plans were made for a Halloween party to be held in October. Mrs. Charles Schmunk was named chairman of the refreshment committee and Mrs. Kenneth McClure appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for this party.

Following the business session the members held a white elephant exchange. Cards and games were played and prizes won by Mrs. J. D. Mathys, Mrs. Robert Taylor, Charles Schmunk, Mrs. McClure, Curtis Zimmerman and Shannon Lowe. The hostesses, Mrs. Lowe and Mrs. Schmunk, served luncheon at the close of the meeting. The next session will be held Oct. 28 at the park.

EMBROIDERED CLOTH PATTERN 2975

It's a charming decoration for your table, this pretty little tea cloth—and almost entirely in quick cross stitch! Let it help you with your entertaining. Pattern 2975 contains a transfer pattern of one 15 inch; four 3¼ x 5 inch and four 1½ inch motifs; materials required; illustrations of stitches.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York. N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

By MARIAN MARTIN

The hit of school and campus everywhere is the jumper-and-blouse ensemble! Marian Martin designs the smartest one—Pattern 9870. The jumper has a deep neckline, a round high-cut back, a simple skirt. It has only four main pattern pieces—you'll have it done in no time with the Sew Chart's guidance. Two darts fit in above the waist both front and back and the belt is set in, either plain, or trimmed in front with a pointed tab and a row of buttons. The blouse is simply tailored—a wide collar has that "ingenue" look, the sleeves are long and gathered into a wrist-band, or short with a deep hem. Make the jumper up in serviceable wool or corduroy.

Pattern 9870 may be ordered only in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Size 13, jumper, requires 1¾ yards 54 inch fabric and blouse, 1⅞ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address, and Style Number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I barely had time for a joyous aside, "It's Dicky!" to the others before my husband's voice came to my ears.

"Hello! Sweet! Are you all right? Haven't been running into any more collisions with the powers of evil, have you?"

His tone was the confident one of a man who had left his wife in the care of a trusted relative, bound for a conservative and luxurious hotel. What he would say when he learned of the bandit who had so nearly choked me, I could only imagine, but this was no time to enlighten him.

"Not any more than usual," I said airily. "How about you?"

"Absolutely in the pink," he answered, and then my father's imperative gesture made me say quickly: "Father wants to talk to you," and I surrendered the telephone to the Chief."

"Hello! Richard!" he began, using his full name as he always does — neither my father nor Dicky's mother calls us anything but "Richard" and "Margaret"—"have you seen Ronald?"

Dickys reply evidently was an affirmative one, for the next query was staccato.

"Wh- did he tell you?"

My father's face was impassive as he listened, but his voice held an imperative note when he spoke next.

"The men are there? You have contacted them? Good! Now please jot these instructions down."

He paused for only a second, and then swept on.

Instructions for Dicky.

"Place those men at some point near your starting place, an inconspicuous point where their joining the party will not arouse comment. Tell them what you may have to expect of them—you will find they are ready for anything.

"Have them leave the car within one-quarter mile of your destination—as near as possible—use your judgment about that. And when you have delivered your parcel, you need have no more concern for its safety. I have made all arrangements which I will explain to you when I see you.

"As for Ronald, Margaret has given him all instructions which he should repeat to you. Have him leave the car at the first station beyond Dalemont, and come directly to the hotel here. A room will be ready for him here, and he will be registered.

"Now, as for yourself, dear boy"—to my surprise—and uneasiness—my father's voice lacked its usual steadiness—"please be careful! On second thought, instruct those two men to wait for you, and bring them back to New York with you."

There evidently was a quick protest from Dicky on that, for my father said sharply:

"But I think it is necessary, and in this instance, I must ask you to bow to my judgment. Tell them we will ship them back to their headquarters as soon as they have come in here and reported to me.

"Come back to New York as quickly as you can with safety after you have delivered your charge. Keep your eyes open for any suspicious incidents on the way, and when you have reached the city, get in touch with me immediately by telephone. I will be either at the Underwoods, the hotel here, or at the place in the village. And now, I suppose you wish to speak to Margaret again. But I must ask you to be brief."

He held out the telephone to me, and I took it mechanically. But there was nothing mechanical in the whispered question I flung at him, the while I covered the mouthpiece with my hand.

"Be Careful."

"Father! Is Dicky in danger?"

"No more than you are—or the rest of us," he said quietly. "He simply is more reckless than any of us."

I did not believe him, but I could not gainsay him, and as Dicky was calling "Madge! Are you there?" into the receiver, I spoke quickly in answer.

"Yes, Dicky, I am right here. Promise me you'll be careful!"

I heard an amused chuckle.

"I thought that would come as soon as you heard the Dad," he said. "And I promise solemnly to go out now, find the nearest hardware store, and invest in a suit of armor, with a chain shirt visor, n'everything."

"Please, Dicky," I said miserably.

"Oh, sorry, Sweet!" he exclaimed contritely. "But seriously, I'm in no possible danger, and I promise you, 'pon honor, I'll be careful. And remember I love you."

"And I love you," I said softly. "Good-bye," and hung up the receiver, to find my father looking at me tenderly, although I knew he was suppressing his impatience with difficulty.

"I know, my darling," he said. "But action is the best antidote for anxiety. Put on your hat and coat, and we will start for the Underwoods."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOUR HARDEST PROBLEM

There is one problem in bridge which is much harder to solve than that of coping with your opponents. It is a question of what to do if you have a partner who is a confirmed over-bidder. Every balanced and versatile cardsman pays heed to protecting himself against this danger, not by deliberately underbidding himself, but usually making the weakest of various alternative bids which might be considered sound. Even then, he may have to play his head off because of the sublime confidence reposed in his playing ability by a partner who raises him too high.

Holder of the national individual masters' championship, Lee Hazen of New York, as brilliant at playing hands as he is in a court of law, was in the South. He is also as canny in handling psychological situations at the bridge table.

So, when North opened with 1-Club, he did not answer with 2-Hearts, as he would with most partners, but only a tentative 1-Heart. However, the over-bidder jumped to 2-No Trumps on a hand good enough for only 1-Spade or 1-No Trump. He then made a more tentative semi-psychic bid of 3-Diamonds, to see what the whirling dervish would do next. The rest is easy to see in the bidding stated, including the use of the Blackwood convention.

It is a good thing Mr. Hazen was playing the hand. He did a great job. After the spade K lead to the A, he built a double squeeze. He took the heart K and A, then the club A and K for spade discards, and ruffed a club. He proceeded then with hearts.

As the last heart was laid down, he also held his three diamonds, retaining in dummy the diamond K-2, the club 8 and spade J. West could not throw off his spade Q, so discarded one of his three diamonds. The spade J then discarded, and East now was impossibly squeezed between the club Q to guard the 8 and his diamond J-7-6 to guard against South's third diamond, so the contract was made in gorgeous style.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Sept. 25.

Conflicting and contradictory astral influences dominate on this day. While there may be definite headway made in connection with public, community or fraternal organizations, with the hearty support of superiors, elders or those in place and power, yet there are sudden reversals, stubborn obstacles and other adverse situations to cope with. Benefits may be jeopardized by rash, impetuous and over aggressive mov , with strife, contention and ill-developed plans and objectives, where as well-organized and sound ideas, finesse, tact and sagacity would be lurative sweeping away barriers.

Those whose birthday it is may be beset by a year of conflicting situations, in which their individual strategy, tact, sound ideas and good judgment may be determining factors. Sudden reversals, and tenacious obstructions, should be firmly met with determination, patience, well-organized propositions and foundations, which should break down barriers and win over opponents. Feminine wiles or intrigues are among the menacing encounters to be wisely manipulated or side stepped.

A child born on this day while having much talent and versatility, with noble aims and aspirations, yet may suffer sudden reversals and deep obstacles. These may be vanquished by sound plans, cleverness and an eye to feminine treacheries.

APPLICATIONS FOR ADVANCED COURSE START

Class In Engineering To Open Monday at Senior High, C. of C. Announces.

Applications are being received for entrance to the classes for the second in a series of advanced engineering courses, sponsored by the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, due to start next Monday at Mansfield Senior high school.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the chamber, announced that several persons may still be admitted to the classes which are limited to from 15 to 35 persons.

The courses are being held by the local chamber with the cooperation of the engineering department of Ohio State university as an aid to the national defense program.

The first of the series was completed the first week of this month. Both series were planned to give workers instructions in engineering drawing, tool engineering and inspection of steel and cast iron.

Session will be held from 7 to 9 p. m., twice weekly. The only requirement needed for admittance is a high school education or its equivalent. In technical courses, two years of college engineering is essential.

Routzon announced that A. L. Allen of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company has prepared lessons for teaching a class on the fundamentals of management. L. F. Reuwee of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company will teach engineering drawing.

Offered at the night school opening next Monday will be training in engineering drawing, cost accounting, department management principles and the fundamentals of management.

Engineering drawing and cost accounting classes will be open to all employes. Plant or retail managers will select employes, however, for the courses on department management and the fundamentals of management.

Application blanks may be obtained at the various plant offices or the Chamber of Commerce.

THEATERS

Film Held Over.

Held over by popular demand, "Sun Valley Serenade," Sonja Henie's starring vehicle showing at the Ohio will continue through Friday. The sprightly skating-skiing musical, featuring the blond queen of skates as a refugee who gets her man, has Glenn Miller's orchestra playing the Gordon and Warren tunes written especially for the picture. "Chattanooga Choo Choo," introduces the Nicholas brothers in some fast hoofing, and "The Kiss Polka" has Alpine atmosphere. John Payne, Lynn Bari and Milton Berle are starred with Miss Henie.

Wild Animal Thriller.

The fascination which wild animals in their native habitat hold for audiences is demonstrated again in Frank Buck's "Jungle Cavalcade," showing at the Madison. Stark jungle drama is found in the death struggles between crocodile and black leopard, python and man-eating Bengal tiger and in many other thrilling scenes shot, unrehearsed, by Frank Buck's camera. The picture was filmed in the federated Malay states. Caught in the schemes of New York confidence men Scattergood Baines extricates himself in "Scattergood Meets Broadway," the second feature starring Guy Kibbee.

Alaskan Adventure.

The romantic story of one of Alaska's famous sourdoughs, Bedrock Brown, is depicted in "Orphans of the North," showing at the Ritz. Brown's rescue of a young child, lost in the vast wilderness, woven into the lore and legend of the North, is presented as one of the thrilling parts of the picture. Filmed in Alaska the picture has an all-native cast and features many authentic animal scenes. "Hats Off," a gay and tuneful production with John Payne and Mae Clark is the second picture.

Horror Picture.

"Man Made Monster," opening Thursday at the Park, presents Lionel Atwill as a scientific madman who changes a human being into a fearsome monster by means of electrical charges. Following in the footsteps of his father, Lon Chaney, jr., portrays the man who is changed from a happy-go-lucky fellow into a super-charged monster. "Tumbledown Ranch In Arizona," the second picture, revolves around a land and railroad boom in the old west. "The Rangebusters" are featured in the cast.

Gridiron Hero.

Pat O'Brien's portrayal of Knute Rockne in the current Majestic production, "Knute Rockne —All American," is termed one of the most authentic pieces of imagery ever seen on the screen. Weeks of preparation went into O'Brien's role as he underwent arduous training to look like the great coach, talk like him and be like him. The film biography of this unusual character is presented by a stellar cast headed by Gale Page, Donald Crisp and Ronald Reagan, the latter in the greatest role of his career, that of George Gipp. Carnival life is portrayed by Adolphe Menjou and Carol Landis in "Road Show," the second picture.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — There is a cloud on the horizon of some under-current discussion in Washington, as yet perhaps "no bigger than a man's hand." But it broke in the public prints recently in one of the philosophical discussions of Walter Lippmann to some such effect as this:

Johnson

"Isn't it time to reconsider whether we need a 'mass' army and didn't we make a mistake in the panic following the French collapse in assuming that we need to equip and train a large land force?"

The general argument, as I understand it (not Lippmann's alone) was that when we decided to re-arm there was danger of the British navy being wiped out and of Japan seriously threatening us in the Pacific. Therefore we plunged to conscription and the creation of a modern army of 1,500,000 men to defend our shores and against any attack on this hemisphere. Now that these dangers have passed, isn't it time to whittle down our army plans?

As far as this column is concerned, it never did believe in any danger of the elimination of the British fleet nor any Japanese naval combination threatening our shores in the Pacific.

Above all, it has constantly argued that the threat of any great modern overseas land expeditionary force to the shores of the Americas was ridiculously absurd — with one qualification, that we promptly train a reasonable modern army sufficiently equipped to prevent a sudden incursion with such superior armored and armed equipment and training as to make mere numbers of bow-and-arrow troops of no avail.

The great rich and powerful empires of Mexico and Peru were taken by Cortez and Pizarro with a few platoons of Spaniards and the disparity between the equipment they used and the arrows, axes and cotton armor of the Incas and Aztecs was scarcely greater than that between Hitler's panzer troops and our ancient equipment.

At the beginning of our land armament effort, we were too far behind Nazi military developments to see them with a telescope. We are still far behind although progress is accelerating.

Getting into a "position in readiness" for whatever may happen is no slight task. It takes interminable training and education with modern arms and we do not yet have the arms to do the training. Any kind of safe and decent establishment requires reserves of at least partially trained troops and we are only now and very slowly beginning to build up those reserves.

Furthermore, we don't know in what direction our land forces must be used. Already by undertaking a tremendous expansion of far-flung outposts from the Philippines to Iceland we have imposed demands on our army that require multiplication of its man-power. It is a hell of a time to talk about cutting it down.

One doesn't need to speculate very long to discover what is behind this suggestion. It is a hope that greater and greater proportions of our increasing stream of military production may be diverted from our own land defenses and delivered to Britain and Russia—regardless of its effect on our own safety —come what may.

We ought not to do that. This is a world of excursions and alarms. Nations fight on one side today and on another tomorrow. Civilization abroad has degenerated into barbarism and banditry. Prudent aid in our own best interest is one thing. Stripping ourselves of a sufficient modern defense against anything that may happen is quite another thing, especially as we may be indirectly arming future potential enemies. Let's do the best we can on all fronts but let's not forget the home front. It is our first and greatest responsibility.

MEDIATORS TRY TO SETTLE TWO OHIO DISPUTES

Manager Hurries To Confer at Springfield Plant; AAA Probes Slowdown.

(By Associated Press)

Mediators stepped forward today to settle disputes that slowed farm and factory production in Ohio.

A strike crippled operations of the Springfield plant of the International Harvester company, which makes trucks for the army, and Shelby county farmers threatened to let their tomatoes rot in the fields if they were not guaranteed more money.

The walkout at International Harvester was called suddenly by the CIO United Automobile Workers late yesterday after negotiations for an eight-point program collapsed.

Company officials at Chicago, caught off guard, said they "hadn't a clear impression of the strike cause," and sent the Springfield plant manager, Hugo Weisbrodt, back from a Chicago meeting to confer with union officials and a federal conciliator today.

The union, recently recognized as bargaining agent, is seeking a blanket 10-cent hourly wage boost, a closed shop, the check-off, paid vacations and a minimum of 75 to 85 cents an hour for beginners. Present scales were not disclosed. The firm employs approximately 3,500.

The UAW issued passes to fire guards and power plant workers and instructed pickets to prevent shipments to and from the plant and to admit no one without a pass.

The slow-down in the tomato canning program—a vital phase of the government's food-for-Britain effort—resulted when 18 Shelby county growers agreed to leave their vegetables in the fields in protests against low grading and subsequent lower prices for their product. The growers supply half of the tomatoes for the Minster cannery, and AAA officials in Columbus sent a representative into the field to confer with government crop inspectors and growers in an effort to end the dispute.

The growers claim that only 18 per cent of this year's harvest is receiving grade "A" classification while last year 75 per cent of the crop was in this class.

A second strike at Springfield showed production of defense-essential steel castings when an undetermined number of workers walked out at the Ohio Steel Foundry company plant.

An old dispute flared anew at Dayton where nine pickets were arersted in a rock-throwing disturbance at the gates of the Simons, Worden, White company, which employs 240 and makes knives and grinding machines.

BLAZE SPREADS THROUGH GIANT INDIANA PLANT

Firemen Battle Flames More Than Two Hours; Police Block Area Traffic.

(By International News Service)

WHITING, Ind. — Flames shot 500 feet into the air and 22 explosions rocked the city today as a fire of undetermined origin raged in the Standard Oil company's giant refinery at Whiting.

The first explosion let go in the company's No. 1 treating plant, and flames causing additional explosions rapidly spread to other parts of the 700-acre refinery, one of the largest in the world. One man was reported killed, and several were injured.

Thousands of Chicago commuters were delayed in reaching the city as Pennsylvania and New York Central trains, whose tracks run close to the refinery, were rerouted around the blaze.

Firemen still were fighting the blaze more than two hours after the first explosion, and John Baker, a company employe stationed at the far end of the property—a mile from the scene of the main blaze—said that even at that distance the heat was intense.

Emergency police crews blocked off traffic from surrounding streets as gasoline flowed into the sewers and caused a series of explosions underground. The sewer explosions sent manhole covers skyward and all pedestrians and motorists were warned to keep a safe distance.

Giant pumps began emptying the storage tanks in the plant, but heat and combustible fumes kept the fire spreading.

Company officials expressed confidence that the blaze could be confined to company property, but termed the fire "a very bad one."

Center of the fire was in a 200-yard area between tracks of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads. Train traffic had to be re-routed.

The explosions, first of which occurred at 5:50 a. m., startled householders for miles around, and brought hundreds running toward the plant within a few moments. Authorities acted quickly, however, to keep everyone well outside the danger zone. Whiting police were aided in their efforts by reserves from nearby Indiana Harbor and East Chicago.

Specially trained company firemen fought the blaze, using steam under 300-pound pressure, and chemical compounds. Because ordinary fire-fighting equipment would not suffice, the company firemen asked no assistance from the Whiting City fire department.

At the start, flame and smoke so covered the district that residents of Chicago's far south side telephoned police to learn "if Whiting was burning."

Many interstate gasoline trucks at the loading plant were destroyed.

INDUCT BURCH AS NAZI AIDE

Federal Jurors Cite Akron Man For Failing To Register as Foreign Agent.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Frank B. Burch of Akron, formerly Ohio State senator and one-time state central committeeman, has been indicted by a federal grand jury for failing to register with the state department as a secret propaganda agent of the German government.

The indictment, returned late yesterday, was the result of a justice department investigation of publishing houses suspected of being financed and controlled by Germany.

The bill charged that Burch was persuaded by Karl Kapp, former German consul at Cleveland, to become an agent of the Nazis. Kapp, it added, arranged for Burch to be "public relations counsel, agent, representative and attorney for the Berlin government."

With $10,000 supplied by Kapp, the indictment said, Burch bought and circulated propaganda pamphlets and publications. He campaigned against the lease-lend bill and compiled a mailing list of 30,000 industrialists and political leaders for the German consul, the true bill added. Buch's activities were said to have extended from Jan. 1, 1940, to July 15, 1941.

One pamphlet, the indictment said, was entitled "A. D. 1776 for liberty, H. R. 1776 for dictatorship." It was published, according to the jury, by the women's national committe to help keep the U. S. out of war. The lease-lend bill was H. R. 1776.

All members of congress and the 48 state legislatures were included on Burch's mailing list, the justice department said.

Burch will be arraigned Friday in district court here.

COUNTY, TOWNSHIPS DECIDE TO STUDY NEW HOSPITAL PROGRAM

Meeting at a luncheon yesterday at General hospital to discuss unpaid hospital bills for treatment of indigent patients, Richland county commissioners, township trustees and hospital officials decided to consider a form of group hospitalization contract to finance treatment of patients financially unable to meet the cost themselves.

The plan, if adopted, would apply to townships and the county. They are jointly charged with payment of hospitalization of indigents, residing in rural sections of Richland county.

As outlined before the commissioners and trustees of 13 townships yesterday by Leslie Fonkalsrud, district manager of the Akron Hospital service, the hospitalization plan calls for payment to the hospital of $5 per day for the care of an indigent.

For this payment, he explained, an indigent patient would receive room, meals and whatever medicines and treatment needed.

The plan was explained after hospital attaches told the public officials that "buck-passing" was going on between different townships and the county, and that as a result the hospital has bills running into thousands of dollars which are the responsibility of the county and townships.

Stating that much of the trouble over such bills was due to misunderstanding between county and hospital or township and hospital, County Commissioner Clifford L. Mitchell blamed constantly changing relief laws for a part of the present state of affairs.

Hospital officials said that "buck passing" occurred when neither county or township wished to assume responsibility for a case and both disclaimed knowledge of where both bill and patient belonged. In some cases it was a matter of residence, whether or not the patient was a legal resident of that particular county and entitled to indigent aid, and the result often was that with the counties or townships deadlocked, the bill remained unpaid, and the hospital bore the brunt of the cost.

It was pointed out that township trustees, having failed to adjust tax rates continued to send their indigent cases to the hospital, although they had funds available to pay only 20 to 30 per cent of the expenses.

One thing which is slowing up payment is deciding whether or not a case in indigent. Harold Lutz, prosecuting attorney for Mansfield, pointed out that much time and money could be saved by setting up a formula for determining when a case is indigent and whether hospitalization is needed.

The amount of hospitalization needed, Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, hospital superintendent, said, could only be determined by the attending physician.

Lutz said that it was first the responsibility of the township trustees to investigate an indigent claim, and then the proper relief authority had the power to decide whether the case deserved help.

Pleased with the success of yesterday's meeting, Dr. Fonkalsrud announced tentative plans for a similar meeting late in the year.

NEW TAX DUE

Ten Per Cent Luxury Levy to Be Effective Oct. 1.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — All furs, jewelry and toilet preparations purchased at retail after Oct. 1 are subject to a 10 per cent excise tax, a levy of 10 per cent of the retail price under a new federal law. It was pointed out by tax officials.

The tax must be paid by the consumer to the retailer who is to forward the collection to the federal government.

BOY STUDENT

Western Reserve University Accepts 10-Year-Old.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Kenneth Wolf, a 10-year-old boy whose sole schooling has come from his parents, won admittance to Western Reserve university today.

"It would be unfair to refuse him," the university's faculty committee on admission said after examining the boy extensively.

His activity at Western Reserve will be confined to chemistry classes and lectures. "I feel that I was born to be a musician — chemistry is an avocation," the boy said.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Wolf, Kenneth has done some composing and has taken piano lessons since he was 2½. His mother and father both are lawyers.

Times Square Mailbox: I have in hand a communique from a Broadway character, which—although it is a mild beef—so far surpasses, for sheer beauty of language and poetic phrases, most beefs received at this desk, that I am moved to pass it on to what I like to think of as my dear public. It goes:

"Dear Dorothy:

"One of my attention callers—called my attention to an item in your column anent Gertrude Lawrence and myself.

"Now I don't want to look a gift item in the mouth, but the real story is so much more—shall I say glamorous—that I think you ought to know it. One lovely moonlight night in Dennis (you may recall that I played Sheridan Whiteside up there and you ought to see my notices—I was superb). Anyway, one lovely moonlight night in Dennis I met Gertrude Lawrence in one of those secluded lanes the Saturday Evening Post is always talking about. "Enchanting night," I said. "Certainly is," she replied, "and how about a new contract?"

"Well, I don't know to this day whether it was the moon or that soft sweet smell of the sea on a Summer evening, but before I could say Actor's Equity, I heard myself saying: 'Mrs. Aldrich,' (I always call her Mrs. Aldrich) 'let's tear up that dirty old last season's contract and have a new one on me. Fourteen thousand a week, no matinees, and my pass to Radio City.' There was a nasty pause for a moment, and then like the little major she is, she did a couple of old Charlot Revue numbers right there on the beach for me to show her appreciation.

I know it all sounds like nothing in the telling, but it was one of those moments when I recaptured that old gift of laughter and a sense that the world was mad.

"Seriously, there never was any new contract or new terms. Miss Lawrence is still working under the old contract and at the old salary. But that ain't hay, Dorothy—that ain't hay.

"My best to you.

"Moss Hart."

Return Reformatory Fugitive From Indiana Prison.

An escaped prisoner, John Nichols, 28, was returned to the Ohio State reformatory here today from the Indiana State reformatory, Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent, announced.

Nichols escaped from the prison farm here on June 30, 1934, after serving six months of a one to 15-year burglary sentence.

Arrested and sentenced in Indiana following his escape, he served his sentence there and was then returned to the Ohio reformatory to finish his first sentence.

He was admitted to the Mansfield institution Dec. 28, 1933, from Lawrence county on a burglary conviction.

Bolt-Damaged City Water Well Back In Operation Again

The Markley well which supplies approximately one-fourth of the city's water has been repaired and is back in operation, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced today.

The well was put out of commission on Thursday, Sept. 11, when lightning struck the pump shaft. Because the Griebling well was being cleaned at the time of the accident, city waterworks employes had to work all of the city's auxiliary wells to maintain an adequate supply.

Examination revealed that the pump shaft and impellers had been cracked when the latter reversed themselves too quickly.

The well was cleaned before the repaired shaft was replaced. Total cost of repairing the well was approximately $600, city officials said.

State of Ohio Has 33 Millions and Ebright Has Grief

COLUMBUS — (AP) — State Treasurer Don H. Ebright is wondering what to do with $33,000,000.

Ohio has that much money on hand, but banks, already heavily loaded, won't accept any part of it, Ebright disclosed today.

The cash, lying idle in treasury vaults, represents $22,000,00 in state funds, $6,500,000 of teachers' retirement system money and $4,500,000 state industrial commission reserves.

Usually, state funds are awarded banks for deposit in competitive bids, Ebright said, but the total now on deposit represents the maximum bid and there's no place for the extra money.

"Many larger banks are so heavily loaded with their own funds that they will not accept state deposits under any consideration," the treasurer said. "Federal deposit insurance is 1-12 of one per cent and this alone keeps many banks from receiving state funds."

A year ago, the treasury had but $4,050,000 idle money in its vaults, half of this belonging to the state and half to the industrial commission.

INFANT DIES

Baby Son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Todd Succumbs At Hospital.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Down at Dennison, O., they call their high school football team "Little Massillon." There's a reason.

They have a winning streak of 21 straight games, and opened their season last week with an easy 52 to 0 victory over a small school. Last year they opened up with a startling 33 to 0 win over Mt. Vernon.

Spiv Harris, sports editor of the Mt. Vernon News, tells me Dennison has had practically the same team for the past three seasons.

Dennison plays at Madison Friday night.

Massillon Evening Independent winds up a headline with the admonition: WATCH MANSFIELD HIGH.

Then in recounting the outcome of games played by Massillon opponents last week, the Independent says:

"Most disturbing were Mansfield's 40 to 0 conquest of Akron West, Canton McKinley's 62-0 defeat of Canton Timken, and Alliance's 14-0 victory over Campbell Memorial."

They're already hanging the "Close the gates of mercy" tag on Ben Schwartzwalder, new Canton McKinley coach. There appears to have been no excuse for his leaving Jack Crider in there long enough to score five touchdowns against weak Timken.

Mansfield alumni of Wittenberg college will be glad to hear that the erudite John Kieran, New York Times sports columnist, has discovered the location of their alma mater.

In a recent column Kieran hands out the Information (Pul-lease) that "The new coach of the Detroit Lions is Bill Edwards who was at Western Reserve for seven seasons, and, before that, was a player at Wittenberg. That's not the same Wittenberg that Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, attended. This one is in Springfield, Ohio, which is quite a distance from Denmark."

Possibly if John also had said that before that, Edwards was a player at Massillon high school, he wouldn't have had to locate him by way of Denmark.

Massillon's fame has spread quite some distance beyond the boundaries of Ohio. But John had to get a word of Shakespeare in his column and the reference to Edwards was his last chance. It was the last paragraph.

Tiger Dope Sheets Lost

Paul Brown Fails To Find Information on Missouri.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Coach Don Faurot of Missouri has good reason for being in the dark about what to expect from Ohio State Saturday, inasmuch as the Buckeyes have a new football coach. But it was a little too much for Faurot to hope that Ohio State might be wondering what plays Missouri would spring.

However, that's the situation. Paul Brown, the new O.S.U. mentor, is operating with only fragmentary offensive scouting files on the Tigers, and the reason seems to be that in the turnover in coaching personnel at Ohio State this spring, the records were house-cleaned.

Reports presumably were made on Missouri's tactics for the Tiger-Buckeye clash of 1939, and these were amplified last year with the 1941 meeting in view.

But when Brown went a'hunting for the sheets this fall, a Mother Hubbard scene ensued. There was a little information available on the Tigers but not much.

So the bosses on both sides will be guessing Saturday.

ARMY CORPORAL KNOCKS OUT CHRISTIE IN THIRD

WEIRTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Corporal Mike Raffa, 126-pound Newell, W. Va., boxer now stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., knocked out Ted Christie, 127, New York, last night in the third round of their scheduled 10-round bout. Tommy Yarosz, 140, Monaca, Pa., scored a fifth-round technical knockout over Don Blatsford, 139, Lorain, O., in a semi-final match, and Jack Stauffer, 162, Steubenville, knocked out Eddie Watkins, 162, East Liverpool, in the last round of their four-round tussle.

Tygers Favored to Win Second Game at Elyria

Mansfield Opponents for Season Again All See Action This Week

DOPING this coming week-end's high school gridiron results in the Mansfield area begins to make some sense now that all the teams in the district have seen action and have given some indication of their strength.

Easy picking, to start out with, gives Mansfield high Tygers a wide margin at Elyria Friday night after the Tygers so easily disposed of Akron West 40 to 0, while Elyria was being taken by Oberlin 12 to 6.

Out at Madison high school Friday night you can flip a coin and take your pick. Madison displayed real power in subduing New London last week 19 to 13, and all reports filtering in from Dennison indicate that the Ram opponents also have an outstanding team.

* * *

Mansfield High's opponents for the remainder of the season all get into action again this weekend, Sandusky, due to play in Mansfield a week from Friday, goes to Lorain where it probably will take another trimming similar to the 14 to 0 defeat handed Sandusky by Cleveland Collinwood.

* * *

Newark's Central Ohio league defending champion Wildcats open their league season with Lancaster and should continue in championship form. With all Akron teams doped about even before the season opened, Canton McKinley should come close to repeating against Akron South the 62 to 0 shellacking it hung on Canton Timken.

Springfield's powerhouse is favored over Columbus East, and Fremont over Tiffin Jr. Order. Fremont last week tagged a 34 to 7 defeat on Bellevue.

There's an old saying: "Never bet against a champion until he's defeated," and this continues to hold true with Massillon's Mighty Tigers until they are beaten. So it's Massillon again this week over Marblehead, Mass., even though little is known here about Marblehead, Mass.

Akron West, swamped by Mansfield last week, appears due for another trimming at East Liverpool, while Cleveland Central, taken 40 to 0 a week ago by John Adams, probably will get another dose of the same medicine from Cathedral Latin.

The Battle of the coaching Query brothers, Bill and Dave, is renewed Friday night when Bill takes his Shelby Whippets to Willard. Last week Shelby whipped Norwalk 26 to 7, while Willard was tying Ashland 6-6. Shelby apears to have the edge this week, while Ashland, going to Norwalk, has a chance to get in the victory column.

Galion, humbled 7 to 0 last week by Tiffin Calvert, should humble Crestline, which won 7 to 0 over Mt. Gilead a week ago. Marion, easy victor over Cleveland John Marshall a week ago, may find the going tougher while visiting Toledo Woodward, Bucyrus, smarting under a 27 to 6 defeat by Tiffin Columbian, should get back on the right track at Upper Sandusky.

FIGHT TO LIMIT

POMPTON LAKES, N. J.—(INS)—The New York boxing commission will be asked to instruct its referee in the Joe Louis-Lou Nova title fight not to halt the battle until one of the fighters is knocked out or otherwise beaten beyond any doubt, Ray Carlen, Nova's manager, announced today.

John's Injury Worries Bucks

Hallabrin Reports Side Still Hurts, Will Play.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The injured side of Johnny Hallabrin remained the major problem in the Ohio State football camp today as the Buckeyes went through their second last serious workout for the opener Saturday against Missouri.

Hallabrin, who received the injury the third day of practice, has yet to test his hurt in some real contact work and it appeared today that the test will have to wait until Saturday.

The senior quarterback from Mansfield was forced to pass up six valuable days of double workout sessions as his side was healing under lamp treatments in the Bucks' training room.

"It feels pretty good," Hallabrin said today, "but it still pains a little. I guess I won't know how much it has healed until that first play Saturday."

Ohio State has not lost its opener since 1894 and much of the Bucks' hopes for extending that streak Saturday depends on the quick recovery of Hallabrin.

Hallabrin is one of the hardest hitting backs on the Buck eleven. In addition, he is expected to do a major share of the punting along with utilizing his two years of experience as a signal caller.

Coach Brown picked the hottest Sept. 23 in the history of Columbus yesterday to send his charges through a stiff two and a half hour drill against Missouri plays.

With the temperature at 90 degrees, Brown had the No. 3 team run Missouri formations against the No. 1 and No. 2 squads with much of the emphasis on pass defense.

Brown said the practice tomorrow would be limited to an hour and the final gathering Friday before Saturday's curtain-raiser would be "simply 10 minutes."

Meeting of two giants, Washington and Minnesota, at Seattle, Sept. 27, headlines the year's first big football card. The Gophers are touted as the class of the Big Nine and one of the nation's leaders. Washington, which lost only to Stanford and Minnesota last year, again is strong. Gopher stars include Bruce Smith, back, and Urban Odson, giant tackle. The Huskies feature Ray Frankowski, All-American guard, and Backs Steele and Means.

DRAFT CALLS OHIO BOY FROM FOOTBALL PRACTICE

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(AP)—Harold Lockard, University of Michigan halfback, has been ordered by his Canton, O., draft board to report Friday for selective service physical examination. Lockard, a junior slated for regular wingback service, said he earlier asked the board to permit him to take the examination here since Michigan opens the season against Michigan State the following day.

College Teams Take It Easy

Smooth Up Plays While Waiting For Openers.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio's collegiate football forces eased up on their drilling today.

A three-day session of pigskin warfare—21 games in all—opens tomorrow night with Ohio Northern's Polar Bears meeting Findlay college at Kenton in an Ohio conference inaugural, and the Bears, who will have six sophomore backfielders carrying the brunt of their attack, are taking a well-earned rest.

Coach Don Peden's Ohio university Bobcats also forgot about the rough stuff and reviewed pre-season practice lessons while awaiting their first test against Youngstown Friday night.

* * *

Peden stressed aerial maneuvers as heavy workout ended with three juniors, John Fekete of Findlay, James Chicatelli of Conneaut and Bill Hartman of Canal Winchester doing most of the chunking. Bobcat hopes for a successful season were bolstered with the return to school of John Riccardi, 190-pound junior tackle from Sandusky.

Gentle tactics were in order at Ashland, too, although Coach Tony Lonero's eleven doesn't see action until Oct. 4 against Heidelberg at Tiffin. Lonero has but 19 candidates on his squad and is taking few chances on injury losses.

Ray Watts and his Baldwin-Wallace Yellow Jackets stage their inaugural against Hiram Friday evening. Hiram suffered a 40-0 beating at the hands of Mt. Union last week, and the Bereans expected to take them in stride.

PROVIDENT GIRLS PLAY SECOND TILT

Second of the three-game series between the Mansfield and Ashland Provident Loan girls softball teams will be played tonight at 8 o'clock at Ashland.

Last Sunday the Mansfield girls won at North Lake park 12 to 6. They play their third and final game at the Shiloh homecoming Saturday at 4 p. m.

Death of Fight Manager Recalls Training Tactics

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Fred Batsche is dead in Cincinnati, and with his passing the boxing game lost one of its most colorful and best-liked figures. Many and many are the yarns spun around the antics of the veteran manager and trainer, and his proteges who ranged from the "ham and egg" to the championship classes.

We first met Fred about 1925 or 1926, over in Springfield, where Julius J. (Dude) Jacobs was promoting fights. Batsche brought "Cowboy" Harris up for an eight-round semi-final, and it turned into a usual Batsche debacle.

The "cowboy" always entered the ring wearing a 10-gallon hat, and wrapped in a Navajo blanket. As he received his instructions from the referee he'd doff the hat, and deftly and invariably "ring" the corner post with it.

Some of the boys in the know used to say that the cowboy could hit only two things in the ring—the corner post with his hat, and the canvas. Personally we've always doubted the yarn, for Batsche always had boys who could dish it out as well as take it.

That night at Springfield the "Cowboy" was booked against a guy from Terre Haute, and the two managers had up $25 forfeits that their boys could make the weight at 1 p. m. When the "cowboy" stepped on the scales he was four pounds over the limit.

The Terre Haute pilot said, "We'll take that $25 forfeit and go through the fight," but Batsche screamed so loudly that the commission ruled everything would be okeh should the "cowboy" make the weight by fight time.

Batsche promptly took the cowboy down to Snyder Park, and put him through about eight miles of road work, made him pass up the usual afternoon steak and all liquids, and the "cowboy" was two pounds under the limit at ringside. The Terre Haute boy batted him out in the second round.

Batsche and Jacobs were counting up the house when the battered cowboy walked into the office. The conversation:

Cowboy: Gee, Fred give me some money. I haven't had anything to eat all day, and I'm about starved.

Batsche: A guy who fights like you shouldn't be allowed to eat. Here's 50 cents. Hurry up and eat, cause we're headin' home as soon as the main go is over.

* * *

The cowboy took the half-buck and almost ran out the door. A half-hour later he staggered back in, flopped in a chair and remarked:

"Boy, oh boy! Did I eat? I never ate such a big meal in my life."

Batche, knowing the scrapper had only the half dollar, asked:

"What did you eat?"

"Five bowls of soup!"

Entries Close In Golf Joust

Tonight's Deadline For Richland County Tourney.

Although between 40 and 50 entries are expected for the second annual Richland county golf tournament Sunday at Westbrook Country club, only 16 had been received last night by Emmerson Weller, tournament chairman, and entries close tonight.

* * *

However entries in the mail last night would not reach him until today, and those mailed tonight would not be received until Thursday, so tournament committeemen are still hoping the entry list will reach the 40 mark.

* * *

The committee will meet Thursday night to arrange pairings and tee time for the medal tourney contestants.

All three of Mansfield's club champions have already filed their entries. They are Bill Black, jr., Westbrook, Steve Stirtzinger, Coolridge, and Joe Mayer, Possum Run, defending champion in the county joust.

The list of prize donors had been increased to 16 today and included: Richland Printing, Mansfield Photo Engraving, Richman's, Goldsmith's, Rogers' Jewelers, Siegenthalers, Andregg Billiards, Jock Collins, Rose Bowl, Hobson's Service Station, Mansfield Athletic Supply, Yuncker Sports and Barnes & Schmid.

Pirates Ease Dodger Road To Flag, Split With Cards

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The Brooklyn Dodgers are almost at the place where they can pull the trigger on the St. Louis Cardinals and you can practically hear them panting at the prospect.

All along the Dodgers have been insisting that the Cards could not sweep through the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn had it figured exactly. The Cardinals came a cropper at Pittsburgh yesterday, 4-0, in the first game of a doubleheader and even though they won the second game 9-0, the damage was done. This made the standings:

	W	L	Pct	GB	TP
Brooklyn.	97	53	.647	...	4
St. Louis.	95	54	.638	1½	4

Any combination of three games in the days remaining will clinch Brooklyn's first pennant in 21 years. If the Dodgers win three out of four, they are in, no matter if the Cards win all of theirs. If St. Louis loses a game, Brooklyn needs win only two contests.

Since the Dodgers are billeted at Boston today and tomorrow against the seventh-place Braves and then tackle the tail-end Phillies Saturday and Sunday, they should have no trouble winning three out of four.

On the other hand the Cardinals, tackling the Pirates again today and tomorrow, and then moving into Chicago to face the Cubs in a final pair, have no assurance that they can win all four.

The Cards whipped themselves yesterday. They made five errors, two by Shortstop Martin Marion, and Mort Cooper, their most reliable righthander, got knocked out of the box in the first inning.

Lefty Ken Heintzelman, a Missouri boy himself, pitched six-hit ball for the shutout.

In the nightcap the Cards came back with the fierceness of avengers. Max Lanier pitched fine eight-hit ball, the Pirates made four errors, and the Cards made two home runs—one by Stan Musial with one on and the other by Estel Crabtree with two aboard. But it was like blowing a whistle after the train had passed the station.

The Dodgers had an open date and just sat around in their hotel lobby at Boston and gloated.

The Chicago Cubs clipped the Cincinnati Reds 5-1 with big Bill Lee keeping eight hits scattered and the Reds making four errors. The New York Giants and Phillies divided a doubleheader.

Cliff Melton gave six successive singles in the first inning of the first game and the Phils paraded to victory 8-2, then New York turned the tables and won the nightcap 8-6.

The Philadelphia Athletics spoiled Red Ruffing's world series tuneup by batting him out of the box in the ninth inning and winning 9-8. Washington scored twice in the ninth to beat the Boston Red Sox 4-3 and Detroit rallied for three in the tenth to stop the St. Louis Browns 4-1, lifting the Tigers into a tie for third place.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM DU PONT

IN THE INTEREST OF NATIONAL DEFENSE, conserve anti-freeze so there will be enough to go around . . . Don't buy or use more than you need . . . Before you put in anti-freeze, have your car radiator cleaned to remove the rust, scale and dirt that cause overheating . . . Have your dealer tighten up all hose connections, cylinder bolts, and water pump packing. This will prevent leakage of anti-freeze . . . Also see that the fan and belt are working properly for full cooling efficiency . . . Then put in a dependable anti-freeze, following the directions on the can.

Du Pont tells how to choose the right anti-freeze for your car:

$2.65 A GAL. Won't Boil Out! One Filling Lasts All Winter Long

$1.00 A GAL. Economical! Requires Only an Occasional Check-up . . .

▶ Du Pont "Zerex" is an outstanding premium anti-freeze. It's non-evaporating. It's for the man who will pay a little more to get complete freedom from winter worries.

▶ Du Pont "Zerone" is America's largest-selling anti-freeze. It's the type preferred by the American motorist who wants maximum anti-freeze economy with great efficiency.

Birds Capture Playoffs, 4-1

Trounce Colonels To Rep Association In Series.

(By Associated Press)

The American Association is sending its league and playoff champion Columbus Red Birds to the Little World Series, starting Friday at Montreal.

For the first time in three years the Louisville Colonels are not representing the Middle West circuit in this post season battle of the International league and American association playoff winners. The Colonels were in the running up to the final 1941 series, but the Red Birds took the decisive playoff, four games to one.

The score of the clinching contest, played last night at Louisville, was 8 to 1.

It was Johnny Grodzicki all the way as Columbus sewed up the series. The big right-hander pitched five-hit ball and had a shutout until Artie Parks homered in the last of the ninth. Grodzicki had hitting support from his mates who put over a run in the first, two in the second, another in the third and three in the fourth. The final marker came in the seventh.

The first three Little World Series games will be played at Montreal and the remainder at Columbus.

* * *

Louisville won the junior fall classic in 1939 but lost last year to Newark.

WISE GUYS BET ON CASE IN BIG FOUR LEAGUE

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Around University Circle the smart money boys today were betting that Case's Rough Riders will not only nab the Big Four championship, but take the rest of their football schedule, including a tussle against Carnegie Tech, in their stride.

TORN LIGAMENTS BENCH CLEVELAND RAMS' BACK

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The Cleveland Rams will be without the services of Fullback Gaylon Smith for at least three weeks it was revealed today. Smith suffered torn ligaments in his knee in the Green Bay Packers game last Sunday.

Brining Leads Tappan Bowlers

Bill Brining showed the way to Tappan Stove league bowlers at Colony alleys last night, hitting the pins right on the nose for an even 600 total on games of 177-200-223.

C. Donnan turned in high game of 237 right after rolling a game of 116.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—You can forget about the pennant race now and concentrate on the world-series dope or on picking those 10 winners in Saturday's football pool. . . . The Bums can clinch the flag tomorrow if the Cards blow another one. . . . The Red Birds must have known it was all over as soon as they started kicking grounders around yesterday. The tension finally got 'em. . . . Bob Feller has been taking flying lessons and his instructor says he soloed for the first time a week ago. . . . From the looks of the box scores, he's been soloing most of the season.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Kenneth Jones, Peoria (Ill.) Journal-Transcript: "What is this cosmic punch of Nova's? Someone has suggested that it contains vitamin B-1. That eminent scientist, Joe Louis, has concocted another vitamin in his punch—namely KO."

FRESH OFF THE GRAPEVINE.

Lew Jenkins says he has cut out the fooling until after his fights with Red Cochrane and Sammy Angott. And then, he says, "After I become the first lightweight champion to clip a welterweight champion for 10—watch Uncle Mike soften up."... Out in Oakland, Cal., the boys are betting plenty on Nova to lick Louis. . . . Out in Louisville they're convinced that the weather man tried to ruin the baseball season for the Colonels. . . . There were only two days all season when the club was playing at home that he didn't predict rain, showers or threatening weather. . . . He was wrong most of the time until the first playoff game, then he said it would start to rain at game time and missed by only 45 minutes.

LAST LAUGH.

Up at Newburgh, N. Y., Pete Tarsio manages a softball team called Pat's Allstars and his brother Pat pilots Pete's Allstars. . . . When they met in a city championship playoff game, Pete's Pat's beat Pat's Pete's because a third Tarsio brother, Bill, patted Pat's Pete's pitcher.

Amateur Boxers Begin Workouts

Amateur boxers began working out this week under the direction of John Eichinger, well-known Mansfield referee, in preparation for winter shows and next spring's golden gloves tournaments.

Eichinger said today that anyone wishing free instruction in boxing may report at the Friendly House gym during the hours set aside for amateur workouts: Monday from 7:30 to 9 p. m., Tuesday from 8:15 to 9:30 p. m. and Thursday from 8 to 9:30 p. m. each week.

PLAN SHOWER

WIDOWVILLE — A kitchen shower will be held for Mr. and Mrs. Teddy Paxton at the home of her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Milligan, Saturday evening. The community is invited.

This Week's Grid Winners

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of weekly football forecasts by Walter L. Johns, Central Press sports editor and football expert. Others will follow each week.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
(Central Press Sports Editor)

In prophesying the results of the first big week of football this year, we can safely say (oh, yeah!) that the games will turn out thus: (I'm ready, Horace, lead me away.)

Purdue to vanquish Vanderbilt
Minnesota to whack Washington
Ohio State to mar Missouri
Mich State to surprise Michigan
Iowa to duck Drake
Notre Dame to swamp Arizona
Kansas State to konk Fort Hays
Navy to sink William and Mary
N. Y. U. to plink Penn Military
Brown to whiz by Wesleyan
Dartmouth to annihiliate Norwich
Alabama to smear Southwestern
Baylor to bag Hardin-Simmons
Duke to dart Wake Forest
Kentucky to rip V. P. I.
La. State to claw Holy Cross
Miss State to flay Florida
N. Carolina to nip S. Carolina
S. M. U. to drop North Texas
California to swish St. Mary's
Texas to top Colorado
Oregon State to nudge S. Calif.
Stanford to slap Oregon

Toughest of the Week
Tulane to tip Boston College
Indiana to edge Detroit

RUX COMPOUND WORKS FAST IN Relieving Arms, Legs, Back, Neck of RHEUMATIC MUSCLE ACHES AND PAINS

YOU can't be happy with muscles tired, achey, sore with pain. Ward off these nagging pains the sensible, easy way—by using RUX COMPOUND (liquid) in your own home. This popular home remedy speeds relief fast, does its work from the inside where its "Prescripton-Pure" ingredients are available to quickly reach areas of pain, soothe aching nerves.

When it is so easy to get relief, don't give muscle pains a chance to spoil your day. Enjoy activities of friends and family. Sleep and Work and Play, with NEW ENJOYMENT — for joy follows when pains are relieved fast with RUX COMPOUND (liquid).

Just like Mr. Forest Brill, 54 Krieg street, Newark, Ohio, says: "I first noticed Rheumatic-Like pains while working in a local glass factory. Some nights my shoulders would ache—keep me awake. So when my druggist told me of a reliable medicine called Rux Compound I took a bottle home and started taking it. I have obtained such satisfactory relief I want all to know. Many thanks to RUX COMPOUND. Rux Compound is ready to use. Nothing to mix, thus so easy to use. 3 economical sizes—costs just a few cents a day. Sold from coast to coast by leading druggists. Get the thrifty big size RUX COMPOUND today. Just say, "I Want Some Rux Compound

YA SEZ THEY'S THREE VITAMINGS IN YER TADPOLE TABLIKS 'AT'S SUSPOSED TO GROW LEGS ON MERMAIDS?
YES, THE FIRST ONE IS VITAMIN "H"
DR. BUGGE'S LABORATORY
MORE HOPS
HOPS
VITAMIN "H" IS FOR THE AGILITY - WE GET VITAMIN "H" FROM HOPS
YA DON'T GET THE HOPS FROM FROGS?
NO
IN ADDITION TO "H," THE TADPOLE TABLETS CONTAIN A GOODLY QUANTITY OF VITAMIN "V," WHICH WILL GIVE THE PROPOSED LEGS OF THE MERMAIDS GRACE, EASE, FLEXIBILITY AND POISE
I THOUGHT "V" WAS FOR—?
VITAMIN "V" ALSO WILL BE HELPFUL IN THE FIRST STEPS TAKEN BY THE MERMAIDS ON THEIR NEW LEGS — WE OBTAIN "V" FROM THE VIRGINIA CREEPER VINE
WELL, BLOW ME DOWN!

Boardrooms Study Washington Order Boosting Bank Minimum Reserve.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Prices pushed quietly higher in today's stock market under leadership of rails, motors and aircrafts.

Some gainers of fractions included Douglas, United Aircraft, Consolidated Aircraft, Glenn Martin, General Motors, U. S. Steel and Bethlehem.

Principal gossip in boardrooms centered on the effect of the boost decreed in Washington late yesterday in the reserve requirements of commercial banks.

Most money market experts were inclined to agree with the contention of the Federal Reserve board that the order, which cuts into the excess lendable funds of the banks, still would leave plenty of lending money for defense and other current needs, as far as they can be foreseen now.

MANSFIELDERS EYE TAX BOOST

City's Stores See Upturn In Sales In View of New 10 Per Cent Levy.

the price up to $110 without the sales tax.

Not all taxes are retail. Some are assessed against the manufacturer but are ultimately passed along to the consumer. The new 10 per cent manufacturers' tax is applicable to commercial washing machines, electric, gas and oil appliances, photographic apparatus, sporting goods, luggage, electric signs, rubber articles and optical equipment except eyeglasses.

Refrigerators and air conditioners will be subject to an increase from 5½ to 10 per cent, radios likewise. Electric light bulbs will be up five per cent and playing cards three per cent.

Entertainment will also soar in price as taxes are added to theater, night club and roof garden admissions. Even coin-operated devices will be taxed.

Telephone service, long-distance service and transportation are also due to increase with the tax.

Motor vehicles and tires will rocket in price with the rest. The excise tax on new cars will be increased from 3½ to 7 per cent and the excise tax on trucks will be doubled to 5 per cent. Trucks and bus trailers, formerly not taxed, will be taxed 5 per cent.

Tires are due to be increased from 2½ to 5 cents a pound and tubes from 4½ cents a pound to 9 cents.

Wines and liquors will be affected by the tax and distilled spirits will be increased from $3 to $4 a gallon and brandy from $2.75 to $4. Still wines, alcoholic content not over 14 per cent, will be increased from 6 to 8 cents per gallon; alcoholic content 14 to 21 per cent increased from 18 to 30 cents; alcoholic content from 21 to 24 per cent increased from 50 to 65 cents.

The lowly match will also be taxed. Fancy wooden variety are now taxed at 5½ a thousand and the bill adds all other matches at 2 cents a thousand.

ON SOUTHERN TRIP

CRESTLINE—Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Uliss of Clink boulevard are spending three weeks on a trip through the southern states and also visiting with relatives of the former at Greensborough, N. C.

LIVERINE HAS GIVEN MORE RELIEF THAN ANYTHING ELSE I HAVE EVER TRIED SAYS TIFFIN MAN

Declares He Suffered For Years From a Serious Case of Constipation Due To An Inactive Liver.

"I will be 70 years old on my next birthday and speaking from experience, I believe Liverine is a fine medicine for elderly people who are suffering with biliousness and other ailments due to an inactive liver," says Mr. George Burrier, of 25 Morcher Avenue, Tiffin, Ohio. "I was constipated and I took all kinds of tablets and liquids for my bowels. My liver bile didn't seem to be flowing freely and I felt drowsy and sluggish and often, if I sat down, I would fall asleep. My head would spin with dizziness. My energy was low and I would have a half-sick, 'don't care' feeling. I had a bad taste in my mouth and on account of the condition of my liver and bowels, impurities would seem to spread all through my system.

"I took Liverine, which made my bile flow more freely and relieved all my above troubles. I am also getting fine relief from pains and stiffness in shoulder. I have also started to take Bee Bee's. I formerly had to arise three times at night. Now, since taking Bee Bee's, I have to arise only once at night. I shall continue to take Liverine and Bee Bee's. I have great faith in these medicines."
